Teachers May Push Petitions For Sales Tax

Proposal Set For Discussion By NSEA Delegate Assembly

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

The Nebraska State Education Association may launch an initiative petition campaign to place the sales tax issue on the 1958 general election ballot.

Some 190 members of the NSEA's Delegate Assembly will vote Saturday on a proposal calling for a petition campaign to amend the state constitution on the sales tax matter, and further, to issue a mandate to the 1959 Legislature that it enact a general sales tax.

The proposal would amend the constitution so that when a general sales and-or income tax is enacted, the revenue would be distributed to the state and all other taxing districts in proportion to the amount each bears to the total, and would apply as a credit on the general property taxes paid by all property owners.

The constitution was amended in 1954 to provide that a general sales and-or income tax must be a replacement for only the state property tax.

The NSEA's Structure and Support Committee, which is recommending the proposed initiative petition campaign, states that the intention of the 1954 amendment was to guarantee that a sales and-or income tax would be strictly a replacement tax, and not an added tax.

Provision 'Unfair'

The NSEA maintains the present constitutional provision is "grossly unfair to a large segment of property owners" and does not give "tax relief at the local level where such relief is most desperately needed."

The NSEA committee further stated that while there is a possibility that school districts and other governmental subdivisions might share in a broadened tax base under the present constitutional provisions, "such possibilities are extremely remote."

In view of the "unfairness" of the present constitutional provision, and the "remote possibility of any tax relief at the local level," the Committee recommends that the NSEA institute the petition campaign to place the amendment on the 1958 general election ballot.

Financing "Difficult'

The Committee said financing of Nebraska schools is "becoming increasingly difficult.

"Not only has the property tax been narrowed to the point where high mill levies must be set to compensate for the loss of valuation," the Committee continued, "but the burden has been shifted steadily to homes and other real estate."

The NSEA Committee said research shows it is "impossible" to support legislative proposals for the enactment of a sales tax "under the present constitutional restrictions."

'Same Proportion'

It is the Committee's belief that "equalization of the tax burden and genuine replacement of the property tax load" can be accomplished "only" when local governmental subdivisions "participate in revenue received from such taxes on the same basis and in the same proportion to the load which tangible property now carries."

Explaining how the proposed amendment would work, the Committee gave this example:

If the total general property taxes of Hall County represented five per cent of the total general property taxes of the state and all subdivisions of government, and if the total revenue of a sales tax was $30 million, then Hall County would receive $1.5 million of the sales tax which would be applied as a tax credit proportionately on each property owner's tax bill.

NSEA Executive Secretary Don Kline said the Delegate Assembly will have three choices when it votes Saturday:

1. It can adopt the Committee proposal for the constitutional amendment and the mandate to the Legislature.

2. It can adopt the first section of the proposed constitutional amendment and reject the mandate provision. Such action would replace the present constitutional provisions, but leave it up to the Legislature as to whether or not such a tax should be enacted.

3. Reject the entire recommendation.

If it votes to sponsor a petition campaign, the NSEA will have to get 56,794 signatures on its petitions by July 3, 1958; in oder to place the question on the 1958 general election ballot.

In addition to getting the 56,794 signatures, which represents 10 per cent of the total vote for governor at the last general election, the petitions must bear signatures representing five per cent of the vote for governor in 38 counties.

(Another article about the agenda for the Delegate Assembly appears on Page 20.)

Past Solons Have Nixed Broader Tax

The Nebraska Legislature has traditionally taken a dim view of a sales and/or income tax bill, but the 1957 session saw more progress toward passage of a broadened tax base than had previously been the case.

Of three bills introduced relating to a broadened tax base, two, a general sales tax measure and a combination sales and/or income tax bill, were voted out of committee to the floor of the Legislature, but failed to survive the floor debate.

The general sales tax bill was killed by a 26-15 vote, and the combination sales and/or income tax bill was killed by a 22-19 vote.

Third Measure Failed

A third measure which proposed a county sales and use tax, failed to get out of committee.

During the session, Sen. Monroe Bixler of Harrison, principal introducer of the sales tax bill, filed petition forms with the Secretary of State's office which would put a state sales tax to a vote of the people.

Filed under the "People's Tax Relief Committee", the proposal called for an amendment to the constitution to provide:

1. After July 1, 1960, the Legislature would have no power to tax tangible or intangible property for state governmental purposes.

2. After July 1, 1960, no governmental subdivision could impose a tax on realty without (a) allowing a homestead credit of 35 per cent but not in excess of $85, and (b) if the property be the homestead of a veteran a credit of not less than 45 per cent but not in excess of $100 would be allowed.

3. The Legislature shall provide standards for uniform and proportionate values for real and other tangible property and shall provide for different methods of collecting said property taxes.

Sen. Bixler said Thursday no action has been taken to circulate the petitions because he was waiting to see if some already organized group might submit a similar petition campaign.

Labor Clean-Up Plan Revealed

Unions Hear Ike's '58 Program To Smoke Out Racketeers

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) — The Eisenhower administration Thursday took the wraps off its 1958 labor legislation program aimed at smoking out crooks and racketeers from the labor movement.

It includes provision for full disclosure of union funds, secret ballot election of union officers, tightened bribery restrictions and broad recommendations for revision of the Taft Hartley Act.

The program was outlined in detail by Secretary of Labor Mitchell to the second constitutional convention of the AFL-CIO and was greeted by polite applause from delegates. The federation executive board will take up the program at its meeting Tuesday.

Mitchell said the proposals will leave the basic responsibility for "honest and democratic trade unionism right where it now is—with you."

But, he added, they will correct conditions which appear "to have encouraged abuse and oppression on the part of some people."

Mitchell said later the program has the approval of President Eisenhower, who saw it as late as Wednesday, and that it has been discussed with Republican leaders of both the House and Senate.

They Would Oppose

He said Democratic lawmakers were not called in for consultation because Mitchell believed they would oppose it.

The administration, Mitchell said, had not consulted or been consulted on the program by the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee which is expected to present a legislative program of its own.

He asserted the administration recommendations will be presented to Congress by the President in January.

He said the proposals revealed Thursday will be in addition to the administration's regular labor program calling for such things as a broadened minimum wage.

The Labor Secretary said the administration does not intend to propose any change in the present restrictions on labor political spending and will "vigorously oppose" any legislation designed to "bust unions." This includes any federal right-to-work law, he declared.

There have been suggestions, mainly from Republican congressmen, that tighter restrictions on labor political spending be enacted.

Stronger Bans

As revealed Thursday, the program will call for stronger bans of labor boycotts and against certain types of picketing.

It also contains a recommendation banning "hot cargo" clauses prevalent in Teamster Union contracts.

Under such contracts the union gets an employer to refuse to handle material supplies by a second employer involved in a dispute with the union.

The program also calls for elimination of the non-Communist affidavit clause in Taft-Hartley. The President last year recommended extension of the affidavit to employers but the present recommendation would eliminate it entirely.

Dixie's Lawmen Accused

. . . Labor Violence

WASHINGTON (INS) — Two truck men dramatically exhibited to Senate probers Thursday the crippling wounds inflicted on them in a four-year siege of Southern labor violence linked to a breakdown in law enforcement.

Employes of the two wounded men also testified before the Senate Rackets Committee and told of death threats, shootings, arson, dynamiting and truck sabotage that cost their firms about $325,000 in damages.

They charged that law officers failed to "investigate properly" the repeated acts of violence.

The two wounded men, Roy Byrd of Cincinnati and A. D. McKinney of York, S.C., related harrowing tales of roadside ambushes in which they were shot and seriously wounded because they refused to accede to union demands.

Takes Off Shirt

The 30-year-old Byrd, slender and quiet-spoken, stripped off his shirt at the request of committee chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) and bared the raw, red shoulder and back gunshot wounds which robbed him of the full use of his right arm.

McKinney told how his left elbow was shattered by a shotgun blast from a car that pulled up alongside his truck near Hot Springs, N.C., in June, 1955. He rolled up his sleeve and exhibited the wound.

He was driving a truck leased from the struck B and S Motor Lines of Nashville.

Investigators linked two Teamster locals and a barbers union unit to the wave of terrorism. The unions named are the Nashville Teamster Local 327, Nashville Barbers Local 35 and the Knoxville Teamster Local 321.

12 Killed, 20 Hurt In Blast

VILLA RICA, Ga. (AP)—A terrific gas explosion leveled half a block in this northwest Georgia town Thursday. Fire raced through the debris, snuffing out additional lives.

Twelve persons were killed and about 20 injured. Some were Christmas shopping before the blast. Others were going about their ordinary daily routine, visiting the dentist, making business calls.

The death toll was set at 12 late Thursday night after a recheck of funeral homes. All bodies were identified. The latest victim was listed as Robert Broome.

The recheck revealed that in some cases unidentified bodies had been moved from one funeral home to another where they later were identified. This led to some duplication in earlier death tolls.

Searchers abandoned their hunt through the wrecked section of town and planned to resume activities at dawn.

Demolished

The blast, which demolished a drug store, dress shop, 10-cent store, jewelry and florist shop, was attributed by Asst. Police Chief H. G. Black to a faulty gas line in the basement of the drug store. Oscar Hixon, superintendent of the municipally owned gas system, was working on the line at the time. He was killed.

Hundreds of rescue workers from surrounding communities helped to dig through the rubble and debris in the search for bodies. Some of them were burned so badly they could be identified only by dental work.

Ray Ryson, 39, a clerk in the drug store, said he was behind the soda fountain when the explosion came. "I thought a bomb had hit the place," he said. "But I knew it was gas. We had been smelling gas for a day or two."

Defense Dept. Called 'Stupid' By Jackson

Another Try Is Planned Friday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (Friday) — A second effort to shoot the Vanguard rocket into space with its American satellite was scheduled Friday for 8 A.M. (EST).

The countdown toward the zero hour was started at 1 a.m. A six-hour count was planned but the Defense Department said it was calculated that a one-hour "hold" in the count would be necessary for adjustments in the rocket mechanism.

That would make the target time for the blastoff about one hour after sunrise.

The deputy director of the project said there was a good chance the Vanguard will put its 6.4-inch satellite into orbit around the world.

"We are in a materially better position than we were yesterday," said youthful J. Paul Walsh of the Office of Naval Research.

"If we thought we were not, we wouldn't have asked for use of the firing range tomorrow."

Wednesday's first effort to shoot the Vanguard into the cold outer reaches of the world's atmosphere was stymied by mechanical trouble and by high-level winds so strong they might have twisted or toppled the rocket in flight.

Exhausting Work

After hours of exhausting work on the Vanguard Wednesday, Walsh said, the sleek, 72-foot moon launching vehicle is nearer to the mechanical perfection which must be achieved before the blastoff.

Adding to his optimism was an Air Force forecast that winds will be favorable for a shooting Wednesday.

"I think the chances that we will launch are pretty good," Walsh said. "We have launched three test vehicles (separate stages of the three-part Vanguard) and each one met or exceeded the expected performance.

We did this by not lighting the fuse until we felt that chances were excellent that it would go.

"There is a good chance that our moon will go into orbit.

"If it doesn't we'll know why it doesn't, and we'll learn."

Snow, Colder Weather Seen

Colder temperatures with snow in the northeast Friday and possible rain changing to snow in the southeast by Friday evening was forecast for Nebraska.

Snow was to cover the state by Friday night.

High readings Friday were to be 35 to 40 northwest and in the 40s southeast. Thursday's highs ranged from 60 at North Platte to 50 at Norfolk. Lincoln reported a 56-degree high.

Reds Ready Ton Sputnik

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — An American scientist who has just spent 3½ weeks visiting laboratories and scientific institutes in the Soviet Union said Thursday night the Russians are preparing to launch Sputnik III. He said it will weigh a ton, nearly twice the weight of Sputnik II.

Dr. W. Crawford Dunlap, a physicist employed by the Bendix Aviation Corp., and Wayne University in Detroit, said he had been told this in Moscow by Peter Kapitza, a member of the Soviet Academy of Sciences. Kapitza has been credited with a leading part in Soviet rocket development.

Youth, 20, Is Cleared In Slaying

A 20-year-old Lincoln man was cleared of being involved in the shotgun murder of Robert G. Colvert after he took a lie detector test Thursday.

County Attorney Elmer Scheele said the youth was tested at Safety Patrol Headquarters and the results showed he had no connection with the death of Colvert, 21-year-old service station attendant who was robbed and then shot early Sunday morning.

The man was released from custody. He had been arrested late Wednesday night at a local hotel. Two 17-year-old Lincoln boys also were questioned about the crime Thursday but both were released.

Reward Increases

The reward for information leading to the apprehension of the person or persons who killed Colvert rose to $694. The Cornhusker Oil Men's Club of Lincoln has contributed $494. The Lincoln Star and the Lincoln Journal have jointly given $100 and radio stations KFOR and KLIN have each contributed $50.

Colvert was apparently robbed of about $160 in the early-morning hours Sunday at the Crest Service Station, 1545 Cornhusker, where he was the night attendant. Then he apparently was driven about 2.2 miles to 30th and Superior—a county gravel road—and shot in the head with a shotgun.

An ex-convict from Lincoln has also taken a lie detector test concerning the crime and a Wichita, Kan., man was questioned extensively. Both were reported as having been cleared of any connection with the robbery-killing.

County Sheriff Merle Karnopp said persons are still responding to his appeal for information about the case. Karnopp has requested anyone who patronized the Crest Station between midnight and 5:30 a.m. Sunday to contact his office.

Funeral services for Colvert were held at Beaver Crossing, Neb., Thursday afternoon. Burial was also at Beaver Crossing. The young Navy veteran was born there but had resided in Lincoln in recent years.

Russ Don't Tell Of Failures, Solon Says

SEATTLE (INS) — Sen. Jackson (D-Wash) declared Thursday the Defense Department was "stupid" to subject America to what he termed more humiliation in the frustrated launching of the U.S. earth satellite.

Jackson, a member of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy and of the Armed Services Committee, said in an interview:

"We've suffered enough humiliation already by having the Soviets beat us into outer space.

Jackson

"But it compounds the humiliation when we find ourselves trying to launch a four-pound satellite while the Soviets have an 11-hundred-pound satellite already up there."

Jackson charged the Defense Department with handing Russia another propaganda tool by announcing hourly cancellations of the launching of a 6-inch Vanguard satellite at Cape Canaveral. He said:

"This is something we cannot afford at a time when we're already behind.

"It should be noted with interest that the Russians did not announce in advance any of their intended launchings.

"I do not think it is wise to announce in advance what you intend to do—or hope to do—in this area."

The Washington Democrat said launching difficulties could have been and should have been expected, adding:

"I'm sure the Russians had a lot of failure, but they didn't announce them."

Jackson said flatly the Defense Department is guilty of what he termed "poor judgment, poor public relations, poor propaganda—poor everything."

More Criticism

WASHINGTON (INS) — Senior senators criticized Thursday U.S. attempts to launch its satellite, which one referred to as a "toy" and another said is making this country a laughing stock.

Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo), former chairman of the Senate Military Appropriations subcommittee, said that all launching attempts should be called off until the administration removes restrictions which he said are holding up the whole satellite-missile program. He said the restrictions include money.

Senate Armed Services Chairman Russell (D-Ga) criticized the Pentagon for publicly reporting every stage of delay in launching what he termed a "toy" earth satellite at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Democrats Charge GOP In 'Dream World'

ASSORTED ADVICE IS GIVEN IKE

End Waste—Byrd Urges

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration got some assorted advice on fiscal and defense planning from Democratic leaders Friday, including a demand that it "get out of its dream world."

But the Democrats didn't agree 100 per cent on what should be done.

Sen. Russell (D-Ga) approved the administration's declared aim of a balanced budget next year, while Sen. Carroll (D-Colo) called for a little deficit spending if that is necessary to maintain full employment.

The Democratic floor leader in the House, Rep. McCormack of Massachusetts, said in a statement the Republicans are evidently thinking of national defense in terms of a strong defense. We had better catch up with the Soviets in the field of intercontinental missiles within the next year, The Democrats will co-operate.

"It is about time the administration got out of its dream world and into the world of reality. If anyone thinks the Soviets will let us catch up with them if they have the advantage, they are doing a disservice to our country."

Sen. Byrd (D-Va) called for an end to waste and non-essential expenditures to make way for whatever increased spending may be necessary on modern weapons.

In a speech prepared for the National Association of Manufacturers in New York, Byrd said:

"Our military danger is great, no doubt, but further to imperil our national security by impairment of our fiscal stability and loss of confidence in our government would be overwhelming."

IKE GOES TO FARM AGAIN

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (INS)—President Eisenhower, finishing a four-day trial run of vigorous activity, drove to his Gettysburg farm Thursday for a few days' rest before a decision is made on whether he can attend the NATO "summit" meeting in Paris.

Mr. Eisenhower, recovering from his mild stroke, motored from Washington to his Pennsylvania home over highways slippery with slush in many stretches. The 80-mile trip was made at almost the regular rate of two hours and 15 minutes.

En route, the chief executive assumed the role of Good Samaritan. North of Frederick, Md., he spotted a lonely serviceman trudging ankle-deep through snow along the wayside.

Mr. Eisenhower had his caravan halt and the airman was given a 30-mile lift to Gettysburg in a Signal Corps car.

The surprised hitch-hiker was Airman 2C. Jerry Beswick who was trying to get from his home in Brandywine, Md., to his Air Force base at Syracuse, N. Y.

The students were honored at a dinner in the Student Union. Guest speaker Dr. Edward W. Stimson, minister of the Dundee Presbyterian Church in Omaha, spoke on the topic "Why Escape From History."

TRAIN KILLS KIDS TAKING SHORT CUT

CAMDEN, N. J. (AP)—A 14-year-old boy and his 9-year-old sister, taking a short cut to a grocery store across a railroad trestle were killed Thursday by a train they tried futilely to outrun.

Killed were John Wawarzyniak Jr. and his sister, Karen. They home from school on an unexpected holiday because of Wednesday's snowstorm.

The two were running hand in hand on the railroad trestle when struck by the train.

Had they jumped to an adjoining track they would have escaped unhurt.

Police said the boy had almost reached safety when he turned back to help his lagging sister.

They were the only children of John and Florence Wawrzyniak of South Camden.

Two Arrested

Two Lincoln Air Force Base airmen Thursday night were arrested and held on an open charge as suspected car prowlers. University of Nebraska police apprehended the 20-year-old men in a car at a parking lot on Northside Ave. between 16th and 17th.

Gunman Holds Up DowntownOmaha Department Store

OMAHA (AP)—A gunman Thursday night held up the manager and three employes of the Neisner Department Store in downtown Omaha between Harney and Farnam streets on 16th and escaped with an undetermined amount of money.

Manager J. W. Mosely said the gunman entered a room where he and three employes were counting the receipts and forced them to lay on the floor. Then the gunman scooped the money into a laundry bag, walked out of the store and into the crowds walking the street on shopping night.

Adlai Refuses Any Wages As Adviser

WASHINGTON (INS)—Adlai E. Stevenson has refused to accept any pay for his job as special foreign policy consultant to President Eisenhower on planning for the Atlantic pact "summit" meeting.

Aides of the former Democratic presidential nominee said that Stevenson agreed to take the consultant post as a "patriotic duty" and did not feel that he should be compensated for his services.

The result of the Stevenson refusal to accept pay from the government required the State Department to take special action to take Stevenson off the payroll.

Something New

Surprised officials commented that it was something new in Washington to find someone who refused to take money from the government.

The upshot of Stevenson's refusal to accept a salary was that the State Department had to issue a special directive changing Stevenson from a listing as a salaried consultant and to list him as a "WOC"—the government term for a person who works for the government without compensation.

Thus far, the only money that Stevenson has agreed to accept has been train fare from New York to Washington for the trip to take up his duties.

Retiring Regent Thinks University Has Changed

By NANCY BENJAMIN
Star Staff Writer

An 82-year-old Regent who will retire next year after 24 years as a member of the University of Nebraska Board of Regents says the Board has not changed much in that time, "but the University certainly has."

C. Y. Thompson of West Point, will not run for election again when his term expires Jan. 1, 1959, because another six-year term would run until he was 89 years old.

"I don't feel old, but I guess I should retire," he admitted.

According to Thompson, the Board, its methods, its meetings and even its problems, have not changed much since he became a Regent in 1934.

'Same Troubles'

"We have the same troubles now that we've had come up time and again," he said, "and we'll solve them by the same methods."

The teacher education and certification issue, now before the Regents Board, is one of the recurring issues, Thompson admits.

He called the Regent action instituting the present Teachers College control over teacher candidates "one of the major decisions of our group" effecting the University of Nebraska.

'Sputnik' Blamed

He blamed the Russian satellite, "Sputnik," for the new interest in teacher certification, commenting that "they are expecting us to turn out engineers overnight, and we certainly can't do it the way they propose," he said, referring the recommendations before the Regents by 11 Arts and Sciences professors calling for broader authority in certification methods.

Personalities of board members and chancellors have made little difference in the functioning of the Regents Board over the past quarter of a century, he commented.

"I've served under four very fine chancellors—without noticing any special difference in our job or our methods," he said. Since Thompson took office, Chancellors E. S. Burnett, C. S. Boucher, R. G. Gustavson, and C. M. Hardin have headed the university.

'Never Had A Fight'

"We've never had a fight despite our differences," Thompson said of the Regents meetings "I've differed with the rest of the Board many times, but I usually come around after we've talked things over."

Thompson described the role of the Board of Regents one of setting university policy by "common sense." The issues brought by the chancellor are decided by the group at meetings called by the chancellor, he explained.

A diversified board, in Thompson's opinion, is the best. "One lawyer, one doctor, one businessman, and so on, is much better than a bunch of lawyers" he said, because of the better range of judgment.

'Voters Behind Me'

"Only reason I got on the board is because I was a farmer," he said, adding that "I wanted to serve the state somehow, and the voters have been behind me."

"The sad part" about the post he has held, Thompson explains, comes from the decisions of the governor and state legislature, "for which we, as elected officials, take the blame."

"We sit around and plan and plan, and finally decide, and then the Legislature tells us how much money we can't spend," he criticized.

REGENT C. Y. THOMPSON

He relates that he gets few suggestions and a small amount of mail on university issues, "but people expect me to be up on things."

Of his choice for a successor, P. M. Moodie, West Point attorney, Thompson says "he is a fine young fellow, interested in education. He is only in his late 30s but I'd stack him up with any of them."

No Complaints

Thompson has no complaints about the work involved in being a Regent "although I'm sure many people think we get $10,000 a year." Regents receive no salary, but are reimbursed for "actual expenses."

He drives the 90 miles ("Probably less since they straightened the road"), from West Point to Lincoln for every meeting, admitting the rising time is "a little too early in the winter."

Thompson's 24-year term as Regent will equal the record term served by Stanley D. Long of Grand Island, and he can claim an even longer record as an NU football "rooter."

No Games Missed

"I don't think I've missed a home game in the last 23 years, and I'm an NU rooter in good years and bad," he said. Regents get free season football passes.

Thompson graduated from the University of Nebraska law college in 1897, and went back in 1900 for a short course in agriculture.

About his long years as Regent he says: "It isn't hard to serve, when the people are behind you. In fact, it feels pretty good."

Duke Has Tea With Queen

LONDON (INS) — The Duke of Windsor had tea Thursday with his niece, Queen Elizabeth II, and Prince Philip.

His visit to Buckingham Palace was understood to be purely social, with no official implications, but it was likely again to set off rumors of a "reconciliation" between the Duke and the royal family.

Windsor

The Duke's visit was not unusual. As is customary, it was made privately before returning to Paris to rejoin the Duchess of Windsor, the woman for whom he gave up the thorne in 1936.

No One Knows

No one outside the royal family knows just how often the Duke drops in at the palace for lunch or tea during his London visits.

Wednesday night he ended 21 years of social exile by attending a dinner of the Prince of Wales company of the Welsh Guards for the first time since he left the throne to marry "the woman I love."

Shooting Charges Filed Against 3 Hastings Brothers

HOLYOKE, Colo. (AP) — Charges were filed Thursday against three Nebraska runaways in the shooting of Sheriff Fred Kropp last Monday. Kropp was released from a hospital Thursday.

John Otto, 17, oldest of three brothers from Hastings, Neb., was charged in justice court with assault with a deadly weapon. His brothers—Kent, 13, and Lynn, 12—were charged with juvenile delinquency.

The sheriff, 58, was shot by a .22 caliber pistol loaded with buckshot when he stopped the boys for questioning at a ranch south of here. He was wounded about the head and left arm.

Butler Says All Missiles, Called 'Operational' By Ike, Initiated By Demos

. . . Democratic Chief Hits 'Distortion'

TOWSON, Md. (INS) — Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler said Thursday night that "all of the missiles which President Eisenhower claimed as 'operational' in his Nov. 7 'chins-up speech' were initiated under the last Democratic administration."

Butler, who spoke at a meeting of the Young Democrats of Maryland at Towson, declared that "the United States would be virtually unarmed in the missile field today had it not been for the foresight and awareness of former President Truman and his missile advisers who produced the 11 operational missiles that stand between us and the Soviet Union."

The Democratic leader said: "The time has come to halt Republican efforts to distort the record on the present missile lag by trying to blame the Democrats.

'Hard Work'

"The time has come for Republican leaders to halt their false and divisive tactics if we are to catch up and surpass the Soviet Union in scientific progress which the President himself said would require the 'hard work and sacrifice by a lot of people.'

"Republicans are trying to blame the Democrats when truthfully the Republican-controlled 83rd Congress shares the blame with President Eisenhower for the country's lag in scientific research and the missile race . . ."

Butler cited a Defense Department unclassified "Fact Sheet on Guided Missiles" dated Nov. 21, 1957, which, he asserted, "makes it abundantly clear that all of the funds research or full development of every one of the operational missiles today were the result of Truman administration policies and programs."

'Greater Effort'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles conferred for 45 minutes Thursday with Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) but evidently failed to allay Fulbright's fears that the administration is underestimating the Soviet threat.

Fulbright told reporters on leaving Dulles' office that he thought the situation called for "a much greater effort" than the administration plans to make. The senator is a ranking member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

He declared Dulles does not think the threat posed by Soviet advances in military technology—symbolized by the Sputniks—is as serious as Fulbright considers it to be.

Furthermore Fulbright said he was not satisfied with the administration's proposed new foreign aid program, which would call for an increase of a little more than half a billion dollars in appropriations at the next session of Congress.

The over-all request projected by the President will be new appropriations of $3,940,000,000. Fulbright said the total was 400 million less than last year's request which Congress cut.

The administration, he added, has not left itself any "leeway," apparently meaning it had provided no margin for congressional cuts.

Opportunity Seen For Starting Native Grass

Nebraska farmers have the best opportunity in years to establish stands of native grasses, it was reported here Thursday.

A bumper harvest of native grass seed combined with low prices and favorable weather conditions make it a most desirable time to obtain stands of such grasses.

The sorghum stubble which dots all corners of the state makes an ideal seedbed for native grass seedings, said Murray Cox, plant material technician for the Soil Conservation Service (SCS) at Scottsbluff.

Cox spoke at a joint meeting of SCS and College of Agriculture staff members at the University of Nebraska.

Supply Abundant

He said there are abundant supplies of such native grasses as switchgrass, bluestem mix, sideoats grama, sandlove grass, indiangrass, western wheatgrass, and green needlegrass.

"Even if farmers cannot seed native grasses soon, they still should take advantage of the abundant seed at low prices," Cox said.

"It is desirable to store most native grasses for a year before planting. In fact, most native grasses store well for a minimum of 2 or 3 years with the exception of sideoats grama," Cox stated.

Large acreages to the south of Nebraska already have been committed for grass seeding, Cox explained. Since there was no large seed crop in the southern states, farmers in those areas will be seeking Nebraska seed.

"If the good supply of Nebraska seed goes out of the state, seed of southern origin may find its way into the state. Seed of southern origin will not be as well adapted to Nebraska," Cox concluded.

In 1932 he was a candidate for district judge.

Thompson Is Retiring

C. Y. Thompson, venerable West Point citizen, who is entering his twenty-fourth year as a regent of the University of Nebraska, has decided the time has come to step down. He will not be a candidate for re-election next year.

Nebraska regrets his announcement of retirement, but concedes that when a man reaches 82 and has served the public interest as long and as well as he, he has every right to a rest and the only obligation that stands is that which requires his state to treat him with the honor he deserves.

Mr. Thompson said he is quitting because he believes it is time for a younger person to take over. That is an acceptable explanation although not wholly valid. There is no such thing as age when a public service is measured qualitatively. Mr. Thompson's service at 82 is as good and valuable as it was 24 years ago. In the pleasant and restful years which are to come he can dwell on that satisfying and quite correct fact.

While Nebraska looks back to 1897 when the university conferred a law degree on C. Y. Thompson, the student, and notes the impressive growth and progress of the university it must conclude that Mr. Thompson more than amply paid his debt to the institution that educated him.

Vanguard Effect Diminished

While catching up in the know-how department, it seems the government has lost ground in another area with its earth satellite program. The nation and no doubt the world had been built up to a Wednesday launching by the Navy's Vanguard missile of the first U.S. earth satellite or moon.

When the launching was delayed beyond its scheduled time, the effects of a good climax were lost. The program had to be called off, for good reason, to be sure, and it will now mean just a little less propaganda effect when the satellite is sent orbiting around the world.

In past months, the government has said in one quarter and another that it could have launched a satellite had it so desired. This was the pet claim of former Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson. The argument must look a little silly to the rest of the world after the Navy works feverishly on Project Vanguard and then has to call a last-minute halt in the operations.

Dr. John P. Hagen, director of the Navy satellite program, said he considered the Wednesday failure "serious to the extent we were very hopeful." Your imagination could make almost anything out of these words. It is not yet clear whether a successful launching after Wednesday will be any more or less valuable in the eyes of the scientists.

However, propaganda hay has probably already been made of this first U.S. failure. A successful second attempt will not do away with that setback. As the Communist nations will see it, or at least interpret it, the initial failure will be more proof of the fact that Russia is ahead in the space age and the U.S. will never catch up.

Business As Usual

Now several weeks after alarms spread across the country by Sputnik and other visible evidence that Russia is moving out ahead of the United States in the crucial field of science the mood of the nation appears to be one of business as usual.

It would tax the imagination to detect any real signs of an educational upheaval, except for a few brush fire flareups here and there. And the general attitude of professional educators is to stand firm for what has been—a touch-me-not attitude as little receptive to advice as it is sure that more money will cure all. But perhaps the more sobering phenomenon is that whatever threats a surging Russia is posing they have not been sufficient either to evoke parental demand for sterner education or increase the thirst of this generation's children for deeper knowledge. Without that, in our democratic society, not much real gain can be expected.

An examination of national complacency and an apparent failure to grasp the truth that even though by the urgent efforts of a dedicated minority this nation may be able to effect a defense sufficient to avert a nuclear war, the race between the two great powers will continue in all fields until one has decisively outdistanced the other, could be superficially interpreted as an inherent fault in democracy and the lettering of its doom. But a closer examination fails to prove that. It seem rather that national leadership has been lacking in candor and unrealistic in counseling the American people in the fundamentals of the national problem. That has led to a general conclusion that there really isn't much of a crisis.

For instance, it is hard to convince a nation that it is lacking in scientific know-how in the face of several recent years when harsh and wasteful Washington investigations ran numbers of leading scientists out of public service as though they were more dangerous than needed. And it is hard to reconcile a present demand for much more education when programs for that purpose were time and again given negative treatment in Washington. It is easy to recall that no effort was made to extend the educational features of World War II GI bill although it is obvious that a considerable percentage of today's force of young educated people are a real resource because of that law.

The American people have been confounded by a word one way and an action the opposite way. What is sorely needed today is a junction of word and deed, and a much more forthright counseling of the American people.

Tax Exemptions

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

It might still be said that a lot of what is being found out by the Legislative Tax Investigating Committee is not particularly new. At the same time, it must be added that the important thing is not whether it is new but what is going to be done about it. This, of course, is up to the Legislature itself. It is the committee's job to give the Legislature a clear picture as to conditions which exist so some program can be worked out.

★

It seems that the committee is doing exactly what it is supposed to do. And while many of the subjects it has gotten into are generally known about, it is doubtful that the average citizen has had much of an idea of some of the inequities that do exist in the Nebraska tax system. Much of the committee's work has served a useful purpose in bringing to light many facts that have previously been kept in dark corners. The current committee hot spot is in the area of tax-exempt properties and many taxpayers are no doubt surprised when they see the names of firms or organizations that own property on which no taxes are paid. To say that certain tax exemptions are a violation of the law is not quite correct so far as the owners of the property are concerned. Much of what has grown up in this field over a period of years is the result of an accumulation of various practices which have never been seriously questioned by taxing officials. The law permits exemption of property used for religious, educational, charitable or cemetery purposes when such property is not used for financial gain or profit by the owner or user.

Long - Time Practice

Difficulties with this law have come about in several respects. In some cases, partial use of property for one of the tax-exempt purposes has resulted in its removal from the tax rolls. The property may not be making a profit for its owner or user but there is a question of partial use which has never seemed to be answered. Also, some properties are used for other than tax-exempt purposes but removed from the tax rolls because they either give the owner no profit or financial gain or because the property is owned by an organization which has other tax-exempt holdings.

★

A governmental institution owning rental properties, for instance, has that property removed from the tax rolls because it is a tax-exempt group in itself. However, the property might not be used at all for the purpose of government for which the group is organized. There is an injustice here in that holders of other rental properties must charge rates sufficient to cover taxes while the governmental group can set rates on its property without including any charge for taxes. The ownership of rental housing on a tax-exempt basis is not uncommon among such groups as churches and educational institutions which are tax-exempt because of the purpose of their existence but not for the purpose of owning valuable rental property. Likewise, there are a host of private organizations with tax-exempt holdings because they do some educational or charitable work. The function for which they are best known, however, might well be strictly social or business. To correct such inequalities as these would be a useful thing so long as the present taxing system is all Nebraska has but that is not the real significance of such disclosures by the committee.

Unfairness To System

In Lincoln, the total value of tax-exempt property roughly equals the $134,679,840 total valuation placed on real estate within the city for tax purposes. Thus, there is as much property off the tax rolls as on it. However, probably less than 20 per cent of this could be reclaimed for tax purposes even under the most stringent enforcement of the law. The important thing is that this is just another example of the holes in the present tax system which, coupled with other flaws, results in the loss of substantial sums of money for all subdivisions of government and an unequal distribution of the tax load. It would seem that the only sensible approach involves improvement of present tax laws plus a broadening of the tax base.

Should Reform

In something more than a hands-across-the-sea act France and Great Britain are preparing to consolidate their electric power systems. It will be achieved by a power cable across the English channel and when finished it will permit French electricity to flow in British transmission lines when the occasion demands and vice versa. This balancing of loads and general enlargement is expected to save upward of $800,000 a year.

The advantage, of course, is more than economic. It is an advanced example of how two sovereign countries can team up to their mutual advantage and in no way depreciate national sovereignties. It is a pointed example to the United States and Canada where almost all along the frontier there are resources divided only by national lines. Although general relations between the two nations have been good that condition has not prevailed in regard to such resources as water and power. Only recently Canada refused to agree to a diversion of a stream on the Alaskan border not primarily because consequent American development would not have aided the area, but because America made insufficient provision for Canadian interest. A similar miscarriage exists between the Canadian and American sections of the Columbia river. Such myopia is inexcusable.

DREW PEARSON

Knight No Match For Coast Bosses

LOS ANGELES—J. Goodwin Knight, governor of California, paced the floor of the ancient, gabled executive mansion in Sacramento. His fists were clenched. His expression was not happy.

"I cleaned up the Samish liquor license scandals," he told friends who sat watching his tense pacing. "I cleaned up the Gus Johnson banking mess. There hasn't been one taint of scandal or dishonesty connected with my administration. Yet they won't give me a second term.

"I kept peace between labor and management," he continued. "But they won't give me a second term.

"True, I haven't got water for 'em. But only God can give us water, and short of God I did my best. I'm ready to call a special session of the legislature tomorrow to consider water. There isn't a thing I haven't done for the state and people of California. But they won't give me a second term."

The governor of California is a lonely man these days. He is also a sad and shamed man. What he said is true. He has conducted an honest administration. He has been a good governor.

And the manner in which they deprived him of a second term goes to the roots of the worst influence in American politics today—money. It's the fact that a few wealthy men can pick who runs for governor or the senate in many states of the union. Goody Knight a few months ago was bubbling over with enthusiasm. His political future was bright. He was married to a new, lovely wife, a great joy and asset. They were a great team, politically and personally. They even did parlor tricks to entertain their friends.

Since the age of 19 Goody's great ambition had been to be governor of California. He had been a good governor. Yet he couldn't be governor any more. The big bankers, the big-money boys he had counted on for campaign funds had shut off his water. They favored the Nixon-arranged deal to make Senator Knowland the next governor of California.

☆ ☆ ☆

JOHNSON BEAT BOSSES

Forty years before, another governor of California had paced the floor of the same ancient, gabled executive mansion in Sacramento. He was Hiram Johnson, and he too had been challenged by the big-money boys of California.

They then operated under the name of "The Southern Pacific Machine" and they too decreed who should sit in the governor's mansion in Sacramento. They opposed Hiram Johnson but, unlike Goody Knight, Hiram refused to bow. He accepted the challenge and with the help of William Randolph Hearst routed the big-money bosses.

That victory helped to bring about the direct primary, by which political candidates were nominated by direct vote of the people, not by a few men sitting in banks or railroad offices or smoke-filled rooms.

☆ ☆ ☆

Thirty years before, in 1927, another prominent Republican fought the party bosses, this time in the Senate, and this time in Pennsylvania, not California. He was George Wharton Pepper, noted Philadelphia lawyer, who won out against William Vare, GOP boss of Philadelphia, for a seat in the U.S. Senate.

DORIS FLEESON

Democrats Chafe Under GOP Regency

WASHINGTON — The general tone and attitude of the Eisenhower administration with respect to the existing crisis disappoints influential Democrats much more than its actual proposals.

With rare unanimity, they felt they were being asked to help put out a fire the head of the house refused to admit was a menacing one.

Such legislative veterans as Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas and Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia also suggested that the lines of authority in the White House are presently so unclear as to make responsible cooperation impossible. These old hands can play the political game by any set of rules; they do feel entitled to know which set of rules and the names of the other players.

Adlai Stevenson found the President as casual about inviting him to the NATO meeting as if it were an engagement to play nine holes at Burning Tree. Stevenson emerged from their belated encounter feeling like the recipient of the little girl's thank-you letter which read: "my present was just what I wanted but not very much."

The newspapers have fully reported that many Democrats did not want their titular leader to given even limited co-operation to the White House at this point. Stevenson got no impression at all that the President was aware of this fact or that the situation posed any difficulties for Stevenson.

What the President said with rather vague politeness was that he hoped Stevenson would be able to go to Paris. That was all.

It obviously didn't seem quite enough for Stevenson, who countered somewhat obliquely with his comment to reporters that he wasn't sure he had been invited. Informed of this, the ubiquitous Jim Hagerty went back of the partition which now blocks all view of the presidential offices from reporters and emerged saying, yes, Stevenson had been invited.

It often seems these days that Hagerty is running a fuller explanation department rather than a press section. It was the second time he had had to clear up a question of the extent of Stevenson's participation.

☆ ☆ ☆

The whole handling of Stevenson has lacked the style befitting a White House enterprise of great pith and moment. It is hard to believe that any real conviction exists there that he is needed for anything more than window-dressing.

Gloom is spreading in Washington under the season's first snowfall as a consequence of these developments. The prospect looms of a struggle by Congress for legislative supremacy over the executive regents. This is not orderly government, but Congress has never been willing to lie down peaceably for appointed, not elected officials.

BOB CONSIDINE

On How To Steal Center Of Stage

NEW YORK — The traveler who has just returned from Moscow, still as remote as Antarctica for the ordinary tourist, finds it takes a great deal of character to refrain from practicing the wicked game of "what-you-haven't-been-there-ship?"

"What-you-haven't-been-there-ship?" is as simple in form and rules as the dreadful sport of gamesmanship (see Stephen Potter's mischief-making book of that latter name, published by Henry Holt). Gamesmanship, of course, if the art of winning without actually cheating. A case in point is that of the weak-hitting golfer who finds himself outdriven consistently by a hearty, heavy-muscled foe. The anemic hitter, a wise gamesman, bides his time, spending it mainly in showering outrageous compliments on his foe. But at the right moment, when he needs a hole to win the two dollars, he says to the big fellow, "Ah! now I see where you get all that power. It's that little loop you take at the top of your backswing."

Naturally, the suddenly puzzled big fellow then hits his next drive across the river and into the trees (by Ernest Hemingway, Scribners).

The traveler from Moscow may find himself obliged to inflict the game of "what-you-haven't-been-there-ship?" on his friends by force, if his friends insist on living their normal conversational lives in his presence. We saw an advanced case of this three years ago in the gents' saloon in the Waldorf, to which place Toots Shor, Cosmopolitan Editor Jack O'Connell and I had taken Frank Conniff. Conniff was fresh back from Moscow.

For a good two hours Shor, O'Connell and I engaged in a lively sports talk, in which we concluded that there was only one thing certain in sports: the Giants and Dodgers would never leave New York. During this shrewd and animated exchange, Conniff sat brooding, tapping his fingers on the table and waving to imaginary friends. Then, almost savagely, he broke in with:

"Funny thing happened to me on the way to Nikita Khrushchev's office the other day in Moscow . . ."

The sports talk stopped on a dime. He saw our furtive, darting looks, heard our nervous coughs.

"What? — you haven't been there?" he asked, raising an astonished eye. Toots whimpered some feeble excuse, but Conniff cut him off by scratching a match across his nose and lighting up a cigar (O'Connell had recently had another baby). "Well," he said expansively, blowing a cloud of blue smoke about the place, "It was like this . . ."

We never got back on.

Old Stove Was Cook, Dryer, Baby-Sitter

By MONA B. PARKER

There was rather a "good ol' days" flavor to the state news, possibly because of holiday time which in itself suggests a nostalgic retreat into memory . . . a harking back to happier days . . . when the hearthside of home was the hub of all activity . . . and there was no care nor worry for the young heart . . .

☆ ☆ ☆ ☆

Dorothy Conway of the Spalding Enterprise reminded readers that this was once the time of year for a program at the little red schoolhouse, when all the children learned a "piece" to recite, and some of the more melodious gave out with a duet or two.

"The evening was capped off with a box social. The time and effort the gals put into constructing clever boxes and filling them with food is unbelievable in this day of the can opener and cake mixes."

☆ ☆ ☆

The Fillmore County News notes with much regret that the old standby of pioneer days, corn bread, seems to be losing out as a food specialty. Agricultural statistics show that the consumption of corn meal has dropped off sharply. However, the News still casts its vote in that direction. What is there to beat fried mush with plenty of butter and maple syrup, or a hot slab of corn bread covered with beans and ham? . . .

☆ ☆

A Bertrand Herald writer was comparing activities of 30 years ago with those of this modern day and age. One of his youthful chores was that of keeping the cob bin filled, and it seemed as if each time he and his buddies were setting out on high adventure, his mother's voice came, bringing the message that the bin was empty.

"The water bucket, like the cob bin, seemed to have a faculty for running dry at the most inopportune times . . ."

It's truly a woman's world, fashionably speaking. Bessie Grammer of the Ravenna News staff says her memory plays all kinds of tricks when it comes to remembering historical data and dates. There are few things she is absolutely sure of when it comes to dredging up the information from her mind's file. However . . . "If you were to ask me how my first leghorn hat looked, I could describe it completely. Down to the last little red flower that held a wide band of chiffon anchored to the brim. And the red ribbon sash hanging down in the back. I can also tell you how it felt riding on my shoulders. The rubber under my chin kept it from blowing away."

Dorothy Miller of the Plainview News is always glad to see an old piano come out of discard to be rebuilt and returned again into a thing of beauty and harmony. People, too, she says, sometimes get out of tune with life and need someone who believes in their possibilities to bring out the beauty and music that are there within them . . .

New stoves are beautiful to behold and instruments of accuracy and precision, but Mrs. Joe Heitz of the Schuyler Sun misses her old cookstove. A push-button deal is nice to own, "but I'll be darned if it can make the soup the old black iron-topped monstrosity could."

The warm glow is missing, too, she sighs. "You would feel silly wrapping a fretful baby in a blanket and shoving his high chair close to an oven door like that."

The children played in the cob bin, the old stove provided drying space for Dad's husking gloves and "love flags" for the infant of the household, and food and coffee simmered all day on the back of the stove. The warming oven kept a meal warm for hours if the chief provider was late, and "the poor guy didn't get heck or cold potatoes like he does today."

A Pawnee Republican writer was sorting old pictures, some to save, some to return to descendants of those portrayed, and others to be destroyed. She was almost to the point of agreeing with a method practiced by an old lady she had heard of who had the perfect solution of what to do with family pictures.

"She never kept a picture. When her children or her friends gave her pictures, she looked at them politely, then tossed them into the stove."

Thank You

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: As the end of the year approaches, I should like to express the appreciation of the Department of Services for the Blind for the fine publicity that The Star has seen fit to give us during the past year.

I particularly want to express my appreciation for the very fine work that has been done by Betty Person in properly and adeptly presenting our story to the public. In order that blind people might be accepted for their full worth and value by the public in general, it is very necessary that we have the co-operation of the daily press. Certainly The Lincoln Star has done more than its share in presenting the story of the blind people of Nebraska to Star readers.

HARRY L. HINES
Director.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: The fine publicity which The Star has given in the publication of the church announcements and in the special religious news articles during the past year has been much appreciated by the First Lutheran Church at 17th and A Street. We also thank you for special news articles regarding our church during this past year.

Great And Near-Great

Hebron, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I read an article recently by a Nebraskan criticizing several of our Democratic Presidents. He said that Woodrow Wilson promised if he was elected to a second term, he would keep us out of war, and that Franklin D. Roosevelt told American mothers their sons would never be sent to fight on foreign soil. The quotations were only parts of the statements made, in order to discredit Mr. Wilson and Mr. Roosevelt.

Since the Civil War, there have been 11 Republican Presidents and three Democratic Presidents. Mr. Truman and Mr. Eisenhower were not included in the survey. Fifty-five outstanding authorities on American history were named by Harvard University to rate the past Presidents as to their accomplishments. Of the 11 Republicans, one was rated as near-great, seven as average, one below average, and two as failures. Two of the Democrats were rated as great, and one as near-great.

The people of the United States and the free world were very fortunate to have presidents such as Wilson and Roosevelt during war time. When Mr. Truman left the White House in 1952, the United States was the strongest and most powerful country in the world. Now after six years of Republican management, we are a second-rate nation and have lost prestige and the friendship of the free world.

The Republicans are past masters at making promises during a campaign and forgetting them after election.

One Example

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: There is much discussion these days, since the President's appeal on education, of the extra things our young people get from school. In lieu of the Russian's mathematics, science and language, we have social studies for democracy and the arts of living. What do students get from these subjects?

An illustration does not give the whole story, but here is a true case within this week's experience. A junior in an American history class complained to the professor that the reader had graded his recent examination too severely. In response to a question on the Grand (legislative) Compromise in the Constitutional Convention, the student had said that each state was given one vote in the Senate and the senators chose the representatives in the House on the basis of population. He freely admitted in conversation that he did not know how many senators each state was entitled to in the United States Senate. He was a graduate of a Nebraska high school and was not doing well in his history course at the university.

Elected Officials

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: The city attorney of Lincoln, like the county attorney of Lancaster County, ought to be an elected public official. If we believe in government of the people, by the people, and for the people, then those who function in matters of public importance ought to be elected by the people.

Of course the voters, being human will make mistakes, but they will have had the satisfaction of knowing that they themselves made the mistake. Come the next election, and any errors in this category of public service may be corrected forthwith.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I want to express my appreciation for the articles and pictures published in The Lincoln Star about the Nebraska Music Educators Association clinic-convention recently held in Lincoln. Publicity such as this helps to increase attendance and interest in our clinic and thus we are able to help more music educators. Our thanks for your consideration.

—Safe For Reducing Decay—

AMA Reaffirms Fluoridation View

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The American Medical Assn. (AMA) "on the basis of an exhaustive new study" Thursday reaffirmed its view that fluoridation of public water supplies is a safe method of reducing dental decay during childhood.

The House of Delegates, policy-making body of the AMA, approved by a majority vote a reference committee report voicing the opinion that fluoridation is safe.

The committee's report was based on an analysis of a report by two AMA council on drugs and the council on foods and nutrition, which a year ago had been commissioned, the AMA said, "to study all available information concerning fluoridation of public water supplies and make recommendations."

'No Proof'

The report said no evidence has been found "to prove that continuous ingestion of water containing the equivalent of approximately one part per million of fluorine for long periods by large segments of the population is harmful to the general health."

The House of Delegates, in approving the report, disapproved a resolution by Dr. L. A. Alesen of Los Angeles, a delegate of the California Medical Assn.

Dr. Alesen declared in part that "the addition of fluorides to the water supply is being vigorously prompted by public health officials at national, state and local levels, and . . . the evidence presented to physicians and dentists as proof of its safety and benefits is highly contradictory."

He said that "due to vast differences between individuals in their tolerance to toxic drugs, there are proven cases of chronic fluoride poisoning after a few years of fluoridation."

Sue Overcome With Joy

About to break into tears of joy is Mrs. Sue Secondino, 19, of Indiana, after her grand champion steer, "Honeymoon," brought a record price of $30 a pound at the International Livestock Exposition auction in Chicago. The champion white-faced Hereford weighed 1,035 pounds on his latest trip to the scales and was purchased by Arthur Godfrey. (AP Wirephoto)

—Newlyweds Receive $31,050—

Record $30 Per Pound Paid For 'Honeymoon'

. . . Grand Champ Steer Goes To Godfrey

CHICAGO (INS)—Arthur Godfrey of broadcasting fame paid history's highest price of $30 a pound for a show steer Thursday and helped some Hoosier newlyweds buy their own farm.

Sue Secondino, 19, of West Terre Haute, Ind., saw her summy yearling "Honeymoon"—the grand champion steer of Chicago's 1957 International Livestock Exposition—bring her a nest egg of $31,050.

Sue's husband, Peter, 23, was on hand for the history-making sale, which attracted about 4,000 people to the outdoor auction ring west of the International Amphitheatre.

Rounded out to 1,035 pounds, the yearling outclassed 500 steers to become grand champion of the show. The Secondino's bought the steer for $100 while on their honeymoon in Texas last February.

For the first time in history the annual "premier" action of the show was visible nationwide. It was carried on Godfrey's morning television show.

Honeymoon sold for $9.50 a pound more than the previous record price for last year's champion steer—a shorthorn exhibited by Pennsylvania State University, University Park. Godfrey outbid several other potential buyers for this year's prize-winning steer.

Clasping hands with her husband, Sue said:

"We just can't visualize all that money. The most we ever got for a steer before was 50 cents a pound.

Pete added:

"We're going to start looking for a farm in Indiana."

Sue's parents, Max and Marguerite Linderman, on whose farm west of Terre Haute she and her husband have been living and working, nodded a beaming assent at the price paid for "Honeymoon." Sue's brother, Max Jr., 15, could only say:

"All that money."

But the Secondino's joy was short lived. Only a few hours after the auction the young couple learned that Peter's mother, Mrs. John Secondino, had been stricken ill in her Universal, Ind., home.

The young couple made a fearful exit from the exhibition and left Chicago in a chartered plane to visit Mrs. Secondino at a Paris, Ill., hospital.

New Space Study Agency To Be Set Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new top level "Advance Research Projects Agency" — to direct study and eventual creation of such things as space platforms and weapons still undreamed of by the armed forces—will be set up in the Pentagon before the end of this month.

This is one of a series of developments or problems arising in the Defense Department in the wake of Russia's long, threatening strides in technology.

On the basis of talks in responsible quarters Thursday, there are these other points:

1. A decision must be made soon whether the United States wants to switch from the current effort to build a high-performance, militarily useful nuclear powered airplane to a crash program designed to get an atom-driven aircraft aloft before Russia does. It is recognized that the Soviets would reap more propaganda laurels if it got one in the air, even though the craft might be of doubtful military value.

Two Squadrons

2. A drive is on to have one squadron of Air Force Thor Intermediate Range Ballistic Missiles (IRBM) and one of Army Jupiters in being by the end of 1958. Each squadron would have 15 missiles.

3. Part of the proposed two billion dollar increase in the next defense budget will be used to hasten by at least two years the development of the Navy's solid fuel IRBM, the Polaris. This could mean the Polaris might join the family of operating IRBMs by 1960 or earlier.

4. Another portion of the increase would be used to reduce the vulnerability of the United States' Strategic Bombing Command (SAC) by cutting down the number of big bombers on one base at one time. Under this plan, no more than one squadron (15 planes) of the long range B-52 nuclear bomb carriers would be at one base. This apparently would mean building more bases.

5. The boast of Russia that she has her IRBMs "zeroed in" to hit every major allied base in western Europe on instant notice is challenged. Present missiles, either Soviet or American, aren't that accurate or reliable, it is contended.

Agreements

6. Whether some of the stepped-up defense spending will be used for building and supplying United States IRBM bases in western Europe will depend upon what kind of agreements are made and how soon. The forthcoming NATO talks in Paris will bring clues on that.

7. Who in the United States government would decide whether conventional or nuclear weapons would be used in event of the sudden outbreak of less-than-global war is still uncertain. The Pentagon apparently inclines to the view that such a swift decision would be the function of the Defense Department with probable reference to the President. The State Department presumably may have other ideas.

The Advance Research Projects Agency (ARPA) will be headed by a civilian, still to be selected, having a dual background of broad executive experience and scientific tranng.

ARPA will be an actual operating military agency, to put into effect some of the broad guidelines suggested by the newly established office of Special Assistant to the President for Science and Technology. This post is held by James R. Killian Jr.

Odds Against It

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — One of the men connected with the Vanguard project said it may take days or even weeks to get things set to fire the first U.S. earth satellite.

Even then, he added, "the odds are we won't get it into orbit."

George S. Trimble Jr., vice president in charge of engineering for Martin Co., which is chief contractor for the baby moon project, told newsmen:

"There are about 10,000 things that could go wrong."

2 DEER HOLD UP TRAFFIC; ELUDE HUNTERS

Two deer who made an early morning visit to southeast Lincoln Thursday led Humane Society employes on a long and fruitless hunt.

The deer were spotted in the residential district near Antelope Park as early as 5 a.m., and later held up traffic as they crossed the street at 45th and Sumner.

Park Department officials said the deer were not of the zoo variety, and commented that it was not too unusual for wild deer to visit the suburbs of Lincoln.

Last report of seeing deer in Lincoln was in June near 38th and Cleveland, when a lone visitor also dodged Humane Society employes.

NOW . . . the little woman is changing the BEEF market from an article by Ovid Bay that appeared in the FARM JOURNAL. Beechners are pleased to reprint from that penetrating report. In June 1950, the FARM JOURNAL warned that housewives wanted leaner pork and they'd turn to poultry and beef if their demands weren't met. Pork didn't get enough leaner and pork was left behind, it still is. Country wide surveys indicate that over fat beef is in the same spot that pork was.

1,500 housewives shopping in 15 St. Louis supermarkets were given a choice of steaks of four different U.S. grades—Prime, Choice, Good and Commercial — at the same price.

Nearly 40% picked those that graded either Good or Commercial 24.3% picked Choice, and only 31.7% Prime. All of the cuts had been trimmed to approximately the same external fat thickness. Otherwise, the preference for the leaner cuts would undoubtedly have been even greater.

This test by the University of Missouri, is one of dozens that have been made in various parts of the country. And they're all coming out about the same. The little woman just isn't picking out what we've long thought of as premium beef cuts.

In Denver, 500 homemakers expressed a decided preference for Good-grade cuts over any other. Second pick was Commercial, with choice running third, and Prime last. Again in this survey, price was not a factor in their decision.

Housewives in the Pacific Northwest feel the same way. Given a choice of Choice, Good, and Commercial T-bone steaks, only 23% of the women in Spokane, Portland, and Seattle surveys chose a Choice-graded cut, 30% selected Good and 41% Commercial. In other words, 71% chose the two leaner grades even though the price was the same.

Pot roasts were also offered, and 77% of the shoppers picked the leaner Good and Commercial grades.

15,000 men and women at the 1955 state fairs in Illinois, Nebraska and Iowa were asked this question by the National Livestock and Meat Board: "Do you eat any of the external fat on beef?"

More than 40% (actual range, 39% to 44% at the different fairs) said they did not.

This less-fat business isn't just a feminine fad either. Soldiers — 109,128 of 'em at five army bases —proved that with 52,682 pounds of Choice four-way boneless and trimmed beef.

Even after close trimming that removed 90 pounds of fat and suet from the average 600-pound carcass, the soldier with a far heavier physical routine than the average civilian still left 44% of the fat from steaks on his plate and 39.5% of the fat on roasts! And that's after an average 13% of the fat on steaks and 36% on roasts had been lost in cooking.

With all this evidence on fat that is trimmed and left on plates, the Army quite naturally is questioning the buying and serving of Choice-grade beef. They've started a new test with beef of different grades and carcass weights to see what is the most economical and acceptable grade.

"Any way you look at it, fat is costly," says Homer Davison, vice-president of the packer-sponsored American Meat Institute. "While it is associated with quality, fat is expensive to put on and it's expensive to the consumer when about three-fourths of it is left either at the packing house, with the retailer, or on the dinner plate," he adds.

But what about tenderness and flavor? No one likes a tough piece of beef. How much fat do we really need to make beef taste good and be tender?

"We don't know exactly how much, but we are certain that it's considerably less than we've been led to believe," asserts Paul E. Howe, scientist at USDA's Beltsville Research Center.

H. D. Naumann, University of Missouri meats researcher, goes a step farther: "Research we're just completing indicates very low correlation between marbling and tenderness. Matter of fact, it can work the other way. Old cows with much marbling are less tender than yearlings with slight marbling. Outside fat definitely is not directly related to tenderness.

"We find that 90% of consumers are satisfied with the tenderness of steaks and roasts which have ¼-inch of outside fat covering," says Paul A. Goeser. Swift and Company researcher in commenting on palatability work of this packing concern. "Although this less-fat beef doesn't have much marbling, we age it from 10 to 14 days, and this helps give it the desired tenderness."

A recognized packer spokesman tells Farm Journal: "Leaner beef must come. If we don't get it from feeders, we're going to have to find mechanical or chemical means of giving tenderness with less fat."

What's behind this lean-beef preference? Here are some of the things:

Calories and health. We've become a nation of calorie counters. Fat of any kind runs up the tally.

President Eisenhower's coronary shocked the nation into sharp heart consciousness. And there's growing evidence that deposits of fat in the arteries —from either vegetable or animal sources—is a prime offender in heart attacks.

Waste. Beef fat, to most homemakers today, is pure waste. Gone are the days when fat was poured off and used in further cooking for soap, or in baking.

Vegetable fats, because of their longer shelf life and convenience, are getting the call.

How useful are Federal beef grades to the consumer? It was the intent, when the present system was established in 1926, that they serve as an impartial guide to beef quality. Yet today relatively few shoppers even know what the various grades are. For example, 48.3% of those 1,500 St. Louis shoppers couldn't name even one U.S. grade when asked in the store surveys. And the rest were not clear as to the differences between the Federal grades in current use, the old grade letters and packer brands.

Many of the chains have settled on choice grade; the name has a nice ring to it, fits in well with their advertising programs.

The housewife has made her demands pretty clear as to the kind of beef she wants. It seems fair to charge that the retailer has lagged in some cases by not giving the little woman the kind of selection she would like.

BEECHNERS acting upon advice of the meat packers and customer demand have always featured U.S. GOOD BEEF or the packers equivalent and we are constantly being told that we have the best meat in the city. You can eat well and stay within your food budget when you are a Beechuer customer.

Gaillard Cabinet Collapse Averted

PARIS (AP)—Premier Felix Gaillard's month-old cabinet patched together a partial agreement on financial policy Thursday night after teetering all day under the threat of widespread resignations.

Gaillard

Socialist ministers had threatened to pull out of the coalition cabinet, charging the government was victimizing the workers. They were up in arms over Gaillard's plan to slash food subsidies and thus send up retail prices of bread, sugar and other commodities. The premier put the plan forward in a move to save 90 billion francs (214 million dollars).

Gaillard said he would resign immediately if the Socialists quit him.

Sometimes Heated

The leaders of all parties in the government majority held a sometimes heated 3½-hour session in Gaillard's office late in the day and reached their shaky agreement. They decided all subsidies should be maintained except those on bread. They said the resulting rise in the price of bread would be compensated by special allowances to pensioners and persons in France classified as economically weak.

But much remained to be settled before the threat of a new political crisis was removed.

The Socialists demand that the government accept the full claims of a million civil servants, who want wage increases to meet higher living costs. Thus far the government has only offered a compromise. This problem will be studied at a conference of party leaders Friday.

The political leaders were not optimistic when they left the premier's office.

DELTA DAGGER

Delta Dagger Jet To Be In Lincoln Today

The Delta Dagger, the Air Force wasp-waisted, needle-nosed supersonic jet interceptor, will make its debut at the Lincoln Air Force Base Friday.

The jet, probably the fastest airplane ever to land at the Lincoln base, will be on view for members and guests of the Lincoln squadron of the Air Force Association Friday evening, before returning to its home base at Richards-Gebaur Air Force Base near Kansas City.

AFA members will have a chance to examine the aircraft and will be briefed by its pilot on the ability of the F-102-a which can easily attain supersonic speeds exceeding 720 m.p.h.

The Convair interceptor is one of the first Air Force planes to use the area rule design—"coke-bottle shape"—and has swept-back delta wings and a Pratt and Whitney J-57 engine.

The aircraft is equipped to carry and launch the new Air Force guided missile—the Falcon.

The AFA squadron will assemble at the Base Officers Club at 6 p.m. for the tour.

Wreck Toll Reaches 89

... 177 Persons Hurt

LONDON (AP) — Rescue teams working under the menace of teetering steel girders reported Thursday night they have taken 89 bodies from the wreckage of two smashed trains. Police said 177 persons were injured, 110 seriously.

Swirling fog—the choking mist in which two southbound trains collided with 2,000 commuters and Christmas shoppers aboard Wednesday night—still blanketed the scene as darkness fell.

Firemen hacked at the wreckage by the light of flares and arc lamps for the second night.

Piles of gaily-wrapped Christmas presents, children's toys and bits of clothing were scattered along the tracks.

Police and railroad officials disagreed on whether any more bodies may still be pinned inside the twisted steel and splintered woodwork.

A railroader said the blood-stained rescue team had completed removing bodies from the debris and were concentrating on clearing the line.

Other authorities insisted more bodies still may be found by firemen cutting the coach apart.

3 Chicagoans Receive $19,500 Damages In Guard Truck Crash

Three suits against the United States, resulting from a 1954 highway accident involving a National Guard truck, have been compromised and settled for $19,500 total.

The three Chicago plaintiffs had brought suits totaling $190,000 against the government in U.S. District Court in Lincoln for alleged injuries suffered in an October, 1954, accident just west of Grafton on U.S. 6.

They were riding in a car which collided head-on with a National Guard truck driven by Robert L. Hill, as the government vehicle allegedly attempted to pass another truck.

In the compromise settlements, approved by Judge Robert Van Pelt, $11,000 went to Frank P. Currier, $2,500 to his seven-year-old daughter, Paula and $7,000 to John DeBias.

The settlements included attorneys' fees amounting to $4,100. Plaintiffs' attorneys were Burton A. Kolman and Healy, Davies, Wilson and Barlow, a Lincoln firm.

The suits were filed the same month the accident occurred.

Proposal Would Give States Some U.S. Tax Money, Functions

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal-state committee recommended Thursday that the federal government kickback to the states 40 per cent of its tax on local telephone calls, so states can take over certain functions from Uncle Sam.

Federal-aid programs that would be ended under the recommendation include those for most forms of vocational education and for construction of municipal waste treatment plants.

The federal tax on local phone calls is 10 per cent. It brings in about 370 million dollars a year. Under the committee proposal, states would get 148 million.

The plan would work this way: States desiring to take part would enact a 4 per cent tax on phone service, in additon to any tax they now levy on it. The federal government would give taxpayers a credit for this 4 per cent paid to the states. It would charge them only 6 per cent instead of the present 10.

Reduced In 5 Years

At the end of five years, the tax credit arrangement would end and the federal tax would formally be reduced to 6 per cent. States then would decide whether to keep their own 4 per cent tax, change it or eliminate it.

The tax proposal was the chief point of an initial report submitted to President Eisenhower and Gov. William G. Stratton of Illinois, chairman of the Governors' Conference, by a federal-state action committee headed by Secretary of the Treasury Anderson and Gov. Lane Dwinell of New Hampshire. Gov. Victor Anderson of Nebraska is a committee member.

The committee grew out of a proposal by Eisenhower to the Governors' Conference last June. He suggested a study looking toward transfer to the states of certain functions now performed wholly or in part by the federal government.

Merely Advisory

In another tax proposal, this one made only by the governors on the joint committee and described by officials as merely advisory, the federal government would get out of the telephone tax field entirely. In return, states and cities would assist local school districts in stepping up school construction.

President Eisenhower has proposed a federal aid program for this purpose many times but Congress has never approved it.

Briefly, the committee made these recommendations:

Vocational Education—Repeal of federal legislation authorizing vocational training in agriculture, home economics, trades and industry, distributive occupations, and the fishery trades and industries. State legislatures were urged to raise the funds necessary to replace federal grants, which amounted to $33,180,364 in fiscal 1956.

The committee recommended similar action on the practical nurse training program except that, if necessary, federal grants should continue through fiscal 1961.

Municipal Waste Treatment Plants—Fututre federal financial support, for which 57 million dollars is available for this fiscal year, should be ended. State legislatures were urged to give financial support to municipalities for this purpose, to improve local governmental capacity to raise funds as needed, and to strengthen state water pollution control programs.

Natural Disaster Relief—Urged that states and local governmnts h rquird states and local governments be required to spend minimum amounts during a year for repair of facilities damaged by natural disasters before becoming eligible for federal aid. The schedule of state expenditures required ranges from $250,000 for some state like Nevada and New Hampshire to three million dollars for Pennsylvania, Illinois, California and New York.

Atomic Energy—Amendment of the Atomic Energy Act to give states added responsibility in promoting and regulating peaceful uses of atomic energy. This would be in such fields as public health, safety and inspection, and in the enforcement of standards not in conflict with federal standards. Federal training programs for state employes, with state financial participation, also were urged.

Urban Renewal—Each state was urged to create an agency to take over from the federal government, as soon as possible, the financial responsibility for making planning advances to local governments for urban renewal. Up to Sept. 30 the federal government had provided 31½ million dollars for this purpose since the program began in fiscal 1950.

U.S. Jet Liner Makes Long Muffled Hops

NEW YORK (INS)—News that America's first big passenger jet has finally made some long flights with all four engines muffled by noise nozzles stole the show Thursday from snow-mantled dedication ceremonies at $235,000,000 Idlewild Airport.

Boeing Airplane Co., Seattle, timed its announcement to coincide with the opening of Idlewild's International Arrival Building, showpiece of the commercial jet age.

Airport operators from all the free world are in New York for the event.

Too Noisy

To date, the New York Port Authority has barred the Boeing 707, designed to haul as many as 180 passengers in some models, as too noisy for Idlewild neighbors.

The French jet Caravelle passed a port authority noise test and got into Idlewild. The British have submitted their Comet IV to the same test and soon will get their "report card."

The Russians refused to submit their TU-104 to the authority's acoustical engineers and had to settle for McGuire Air Force Base, N.J.

Now, at last, America's own entrant in the 600-mile-an-hour sweepstakes may be ready to take the test, too—for the second time.

It flunked the first.

Indonesia Said Ready To Repatriate 46,000 Dutch People Living In Jakarta

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—An Indonesian government official said Thursday Indonesia intends if possible to repatriate the 46,000 Dutch people living in this sprawling island republic. A later government announcement denied that expulsion of Dutch Nationals had been ordered or is being considered.

Issuing the denial that expulsion had been ordered, a Foreign Ministry spokesman referred to a statement Wednesday by Premier Djuanda that no pressure was to be applied to force the Dutch to leave the country at present.

The Premier said the "lives and property of all Dutch subjects here is guaranteed by the government. If they wish to leave the country they will be given every assistance."

Earlier Thursday Maj. Gen. Abdul Harris Naustion, chief of staff, made a nationwide radio broadcast calling on the Indonesian people to avoid any individual actions against the Dutch.

8 Consulates

The announcements on the future status of Dutch citizens in Indonesia came as the government asked the Netherlands to close all but one of its eight consulates.

A cabinet decree also ordered seizure by the government of all the big Dutch business concerns taken over in the last few days by Communist-dominated labor unions.

All these actions, a phase of the anti-Dutch campaign aimed at winning primitive West New Guinea, where hedged by contradictions and confusion.

The Dutch until 1949 ruled the 3,000 East Indies islands now known as Indonesia. They still have a billion dollar business empire in the republic. Some 46,000 Dutch subjects live here, though two-thirds are Eurasians.

Skilled Laborers

Justice Minister Gustaaf Mangekom said Indonesia intends if possible to repatriate all the 46,000 whose services are not needed. The government wants skilled laborers to remain, he said, but will put no obstacles in their way if they want to go.

Nearly 300 former employes of the banned KLM Dutch Airlines who are now employed by the Indonesian Garuda Airways will not be asked to leave, he said.

He added there had been a meeting on the repatriation question between officials of the Justice Ministry and the Dutch Embassy. The Dutch Foreign Ministry at the Hague said plans were being made to remove Dutch Nationals as necessary.

(In this connection, the Dutch government asked the International Red Cross and the International Refugee Organization to help in the repatriation. One official in the Hague said reports received there indicated the Dutch in Indonesia were reaching a state of panic.)

The government takeover of Dutch businesses was ordered after members of Sobsi, the Communist-dominated Trade Union Federation, seized KPM, a big shipping line, which handles 70 per cent of inter-island traffic plus transocean business, and two trading companies, including Jacobsen Van Den Berg, third largest Dutch business in Indonesia.

Red Flags

Pickets ran up Red flags over the buildings on Tuesday and Wednesday and also set up lines around three of the biggest banks. Large-scale withdrawals of deposits began while bank and union officials passed the keys to vaults and records back and forth in negotiations over the institutions.

Early Thursday the Communist chiefs apparently bowed to more moderate government leaders who ordered the firms handed back to their owners. The Red flags were hauled down.

This state of affairs was then superseded by the order for the firms to be taken over by the government under a "council of management." A government source said this was a "move to solve a tricky situation."

He predicted the Dutch would be back in control of their businesses in a few days. Business circles saw the whole thing as possibly a face saving device.

A government source explained that in the current mood of the workers it was necessary to move carefully and that the military was the only authority competent to handle the situation.

The cabinet order actually mentioned only KPM, but Information Minister Sudibjo said it applied to all companies occupied by the workers.

More Irrigable Land Hoped For

RED CLOUD, Neb. (AP) — The Crooked Creek on the east edge of Red Cloud is being deepened and widened in the hope of bringing irrigation to 500 additional acres in the Republican River Valley area and to help prevent flood damage.

A similar piece of work will be undertaken two miles west of Inavale and it, too, will reclaim 500 acres of irrigable land. Work there, though, isn't expected to be finished until July, 1958.

White in the presence of members of the family.

Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. James B. Schrepel.

For her wedding, the bride wore an after-five ensemble in mauve wool with black accessories. An orchid corsage complemented her costume, and she carried an heirloom handkerchief of Rosepoint lace.

Immediately following the ceremony, a wedding dinner was held at the Italian Village.

Upon their return from an extended trip to Mexico City and Acapulco, Dr. and Mrs. Gradwohl will reside at 1340 So. 20th.

PTA Plans TV Series

At the December meeting of the Lincoln Council of Parents and Teachers, held Thursday afternoon at the Board of Education, the members voted to participate in a TV discussion series which will feature pupil-home-school topics of general interest.

To be presented twice a month by PTA members, educators and community leaders, the program will be followed by group discussions among various PTA units in the city, and will be concluded by a televised panel which will present the opinions of the PTA units as they are phoned in.

Unit safety chairmen and civil defense chairmen attended the Thursday meeting which included talks on "Problems of Civil Defense in Relation to the Public Schools", by Richard A. Vestecka, director of the Lincoln-Lancaster County Civil Defense, and Lloyd Jenkins, coordinator of safety for the Lincoln Schools and chief warden for Civil Defense.

It was recommended that the PTA arrange for a committee in each school district to work with the school in the event of civilian evacuation; to form car pools; and to assist at welfare and first aid centers.

Announcement also was made of the annual Christmas party for homebound pupils to be held Dec. 17, at the Board of Education.

Bryan School Open House

The Bryan School Parents Club will entertain at an open house Friday evening at the school from 7 o'clock to 8:30 o'clock. A Christmas program will be presented and Santa Claus will be a special guest. The members also will sponsor a small bazaar, and refreshments will be served.

THERE'S so much news this morning that we won't take up any space with our own verbal meanderings—We have brides-to-be and their courtesies to mention—We have a new name in our guest book—some dancing Club news.

We discovered this morning that Miss Cynthia Barber, whose marriage to Thomas Harold Olson will take place at Westminster Presbyterian Church on Dec. 29, will have few idle moments between now and her wedding day.

The long series of courtesies for the bride-elect began on Dec. 4 when Miss Lynn Stafford and Miss Anne Pickett were hostesses at a dessert supper at the home of Miss Stafford. Twenty guests were invited for the supper and a pottery shower for the bride-to-be.

* * *

COMPLIMENTING Miss Barber on Saturday morning will be Mrs. James Crabil who has invited Miss Barber's bridal attendants and a group of friends of the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. O. A. Barber, Jr., for an 11 o'clock brunch and a bathroom shower.

On Tuesday evening, Dec. 10, Miss Nan Carlson will pay prenuptial courtesy to Miss Barber when she entertains a group of guests at her home.The son-to-be bride will be presented with a linen shower.

* * *

ON THURSDAY Miss Barber will again be an honoree when Mrs. Elwood N. Thompson is tea hostess between the hours of 4 o'clock and 6 o'clock at her home. The guest list includes friends of the bride-to-be's mother.

* * *

MISS Barber and her fiance will share honors on Friday evening, Dec. 13, when Mr. and Mrs. Charles Swingle and their daughter, Miss Suzie Swingle, honor both Miss Barber and Mr. Olson and their families, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Barber, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bengt Olson of Lisco.

* * *

WE'LL leave Miss Barber and Mr. Olson for the moment, and take a look at Miss Martha Hill and her fiance, Malcolm Cleland of Chicago, whose marriage also will be solemnized on Dec. 28.

Numerous courtesies for Miss Hill and Mr. Cleland will be crowded into the brief space of two weeks when Miss Hill and her fiance arrive on Saturday, Dec. 14, from Chicago.

On that Saturday morning Miss Hill hurries to a coffee for which Mrs. C. E. Rosenquist will be hostess at her home.

Also complimenting Miss Hill and Mr. Cleland on that Saturday will be Dr. and Mrs. C. K. Elliott who will be a dinner host and hostess at the University Club.

* * *

ON Saturday evening the members of the Emanon Dancing Club and their guests will dine and dance at Hillcrest Country Club. In charge of the party is a committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wadley, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jensen, Mr. and Mrs. Rod Dudley, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rhodes, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Hines, Mr. and Mrs. Vern Walker.

The guest list will include Mr. and Mrs. Dale Bendixen of Omaha; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Sack of York; Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hamming, Maj. and Mrs. Marvin Croeger, Max Grosshans, Mrs. Helen Dale, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bartlett, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Jones, Dewey Dahl, Orlin Overbeck of Beatrice; Capt. David Hollenbaugh, Miss Virginia Guhin, Dr. and Mrs. Quentin Quay, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hempel, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Freese and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Merritt.

Mrs. JayCees Honor Bride-Elect

Officers and former board members of the Mrs. Jaycees, wives of Junior Chamber of Commerce members, were hostesses Thursday evening at a bridal shower honoring Miss Lois Bogenrief, a December bride-elect, who is employed as a secretary at the Chamber of Commerce.

The party was held at the home of Mrs. Marvin Tomlinson, and during the informal evening, a one-gift shower was presented to the honoree. In charge of arrangements for the evening were Mrs. Bill Voss, president of the group, and Mrs. Ted Shepard.

Pictured with Miss Bogenrief, whose marriage to R. Bruce Campbell will be solemnized Saturday afternoon, Dec. 14, at the First Presbyterian Church, are (seated and kneeling on floor, from left) Mrs. Voss, Ardis Hunt, Mrs. Ralph Wells, and Mrs. Tomlinson; (seated on couch, from left) Mrs. Reinie Wilhelm, Mrs. Maurice Sapp, Mrs. Gaylord Blanc, Miss Bogenrief, Mrs. Charles Casper, and Mrs. Don Leising. Standing in back is Mrs. Shepard.

THE STAR IN SUBURBIA

SOUTH HILLS

We can well imagine the fun that will be in store for a feminine group who will gather at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Schmidt on Wednesday evening, Dec. 18. Mrs. Schmidt and Mrs. Wesley Lampshire will entertain at a "new-neighbor" courtesy for Mrs. Dick Asprooth and also to compliment Mrs. Norris Swanson on her birthday anniversary. The event will be a dessert supper and bridge party and included among the guests, in addition to the honorees, will be Mrs. Jack Botts, Mrs. Dwight Nelson, Mrs. Duane Nelson, Miss Hellen Linkswiler, Mrs. Earl Madsen, Mrs. Bob Goeschel, Mrs. Russell Jackson and Mrs. Joe Patterson.

We also ascertain this ayem the excitement that will occur in the suburb home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lemon and their children, Sherry and Dexter, who will have as their week end guests Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bryant and their two youngsters, Becky and Barby of Kansas City, Mo., and Mr. and Mrs. John Edwards, DeeDee and Larry of Altamont, Kan., who join the Lemon family in Nebraska or Kansas annually during the Christmas holiday season. There undoubtedly will be a considerable amount of reminiscing among the group for we understand that Mr. Lemon, Mr. Bryant and Mr. Edwards are an old "buddy threesome" that graduated from Kansas State College in Manhattan, Kan.

Mention of the Lemon family reminds us that it was last week end when they motored to Kansas to be the Thanksgiving holiday guests of Mrs. Lemon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Hipsher in Lane, Kan., and also visited at the home of Mr. Lemon's mother. Mrs. LeOna Lemon in Osawatomie, Kan.

Hear that Mrs. Richard Wolff and Mrs. William Thane Minor will be co-hostesses at a pink and blue shower next Thursday evening when they entertain in courtesy to Mrs. Charles Ness. Fifteen neighborhood friends will gather in the Wolff home for the evening dessert after which Mrs. Ness will be presented with an array of gifts.

Maj. and Mr. William Than Minor had as their dinner guests last Tuesday evening Col. Perry Hoisington and Col. and Mrs. Elkins Reed.

KESSLER HEIGHTS

Our news this morning from Kessler Heights concerns the past Thanksgiving holiday — Understand that Sk.C. and Mrs. Gordon Fergot and their son, Jeff, motored to Wisconsin last week when they were holiday guests of Mrs. Fergot's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence St. Mary in Wausau and also visited Mr. Fergot's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Fergot in Edgar, Wis.

A host and hostess last Thursday were Mr. and Mrs. Dean Robare who extended holiday cheer to Mr. and Mrs. Rex Kelly and their children of Kearney; Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Geiger and Mr. Geiger's father, Peter Geiger, all of Exeter, and Mr. and Mrs. James Kelly and their family. The Robares and their youngsters, Lynn, Sandra and Jeanne entertained at a Thanksgiving dinner for their guests.

Motoring to Kearney during the holiday week end were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Zimmerman and three children, Linda, Sandra and Jeanne who visited Mrs. Zimmerman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Ball.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Blackburn and their daughter, Charlene, had an enjoyable vacation — so we hear — when they motored to Indianapolis, Ind., during the Thanksgiving holidays to visit Mrs. Blackburn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Fuller.

MISS PATRICIA ANN KRAFT

This morning Mr. and Mrs. Leo Kraft make announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Patricia Ann, to Lt. Robert F. Titzer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Titzer of Evansville, Ind.

The wedding is planned for Saturday, Feb. 1, and the ceremony will be solemnized at 11 o'clock in the morning at St. Teresa's Church.

Miss Kraft is a graduate of Duchesne College in Omaha.

THE BRIDES' BOOK SAYS:

In pre-nuptial courtesy to Miss Joyce Magidson whose marriage to Richard Pocras will be an event of Sunday, Dec. 22, Mrs. Joseph Schuchman will be hostess to 14 guests when she entertains for the bride-elect this evening. The party will be held at the Schuchman home and during the evening a recipe shower will be presented to Miss Magidson.

Another recent courtesy given in honor of Miss Magidson was the dessert supper and miscellaneous shower for which Miss Sondra Sherman, Miss Helen Epstein and Miss Fran Brown were hostesses.

A bride-elect of late December is Miss Sally Carter who has chosen Saturday, Dec. 28, as the date for her marriage to Robert Wagner. The 2 o'clock ceremony will be solemnized at the First Presbyterian Church in Grand Island.

Miss Carter has named Miss Susan Shepherd of Grand Island as her maid of honor and the bridesmatron will be Mrs. Earl Allison. In attendance as bridesmaid will be Miss Joan Norris of Weeping Water, while Miss Sara Hubka of Beatrice and Miss Marlene Kuhlman of Denver, Colo. will light the candles.

Serving Mr. Wagner as best man will be Earl Allison and seating the guests for the afternoon ceremony will be Philip Starck of Woodstock, Ill., Allan Irwin of Lincoln, Philip Kreutz of Aurora, Robert Glock and Dean Glock of Rising City, and Dwight Trumble of Papillion.

On Friday, Dec. 6, Miss Carter will be honored at a party given by Miss Joan Norris at her home in Weeping Water. Twenty friends of the honoree have been invited for the informal afternoon affair.

Entertaining for Miss Carter and Mr. Wagner on Saturday, Nov. 30, was Miss Susan Shepherd. The hors d' oeuvre party and dinner was held at the Shepherd home in Grand Island.

Miss Pat Daniel, Miss Marlene Kuhlman and Miss Sara Hubka were hostesses to 18 guests on Sunday, Nov. 23, when they entertained for the bride-to-be at a dessert supper held at the Compass Room.

Both Miss Carter and her fiance are seniors at the University of Nebraska. Miss Carter is a member of Delta Gamma sorority and Mortar Board honor society, and Mr. Wagner is a member of Alpha Gamma Rho.

CHATTER In The CORRIDOR

By ANNE SOWLES and NEAL HIGGINS

After the two day Thanksgiving vacation everyone returned to school full of enthusiasm and well rested to start to work on the final six weeks of the semester.

★

Movies, the ever-popular pastime, were enjoyed by many this week-end. Taking in the latest cinemas were Leah Cheuvront and Tom Laging, Mary Walt and Jim Sheldon (University of Neb.), Sarah Stenten and Steve Nelson (University of Nebr.), and John Weaver and Beth Hemmer.

★

Congratulations to the cast of "Charley's Aunt" on their fine performance. Tip Dow, starring as Charley's Aunt, portrayed a young Oxford student who was forced into impersonating a wealthy heiress from Brazil. After great confusion and hilarity the identity of the true aunt is revealed.

★

Traveling to Fort Worth, Texas over Thanksgiving to see two former Southeast students were Jon Van Bloom and Gary Gibson. Wynn Housel, a junior, moved to Texas last summer. Sandie Nixon who left Southeast to go to India is now back in the States completing her high school education in Texas. During Christmas vacation Sandie will return to Lincoln to spend the holdiays with a few of her old friends, Glenda Luff, Leah Cheuvront, and Judy Borgman.

★

Before the opening basketball game of the season, Friday night, Judy Yaussi will be the hostess at a small dinner party for some junior girls. Following the dinner the girls will join the other spectators to cheer the Knights on to a winning season.

Recently while reading an out of state newspaper we came upon this and thought it was good advice to all teen-agers.

TEN TEEN COMMANDMENTS

1. Don't let your parents down. They brought you up.
2. Be smart, obey. You'll give orders yourself some day.
3. Ditch dirty thoughts fast or they'll ditch you.
4. Stop and think before you drink.
5. Show-off driving is juvenile. Don't act your age.
6. Pick the right friends to be picked for a friend.
7. Choose a date fit for a mate.
8. Don't go steady unless you're ready.
9. Love God and your neighbor.
10. Live carefully. The soul you save may be your own.

Dear Abby . . .

Sounds Like An "If" Job!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a respectable man of 38 years and have been on the job in the same warehouse for 16 years. My boss's daughter is 19 years old and is going to have a baby but she has no husband. My boss asked me as a personal favor to marry this girl to give the baby a name and said if we don't make a success of it we can get a divorce later. I told him I would do it, but now I am getting cold feet. Do you think if I changed my mind it would affect my job? I have never been married. Thank you.

ARNIE

DEAR ARNIE: If your job depends on whether or not you marry the boss's daughter, get another job. Marriage should be for keeps. Don't marry anyone unless you want her forever.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 years old and my best girl friend and I take turns sleeping over at each other's house. When we do, she is very nervy and starts calling up boys. She asks them questions about me and I get on the extension phone and listen. I started to giggle and Friday night we made perfect idiots out of ourselves and now none of the boys will even speak to us. Should I explain that calling them was HER idea and not mine? I don't like the silent treatment.

SORRY GIRL

DEAR SORRY: Don't put the blame on Mame. You also took part in the scheme. In the future, don't be a party to phoning boys and you'll not have this problem.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl who, everyone says, should have gone on the stage. I love a good joke and can tell one after another and keep the crowd laughing. I go with a fellow (Manny) who also likes to laugh. He seems to enjoy my company but I can't get him to be serious with me. How can I win him?

MARION G.

DEAR MARION: Keep him in stitches and you'll have him sewed up.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: My husband pays more attention to his car than he does to me. He stays up until two in the morning working on that car and he has to go to work at eight. I think it is nice to have a hobby, but he is going too far. He put a 1954 engine in a 1946 car. Big deal! Don't you think this is a waste of time for a 26-year-old man?

HOBBY WIDOW

DEAR HOBBY WIDOW: A "hobby" should occupy one's "spare" time . . . not one's sleeping time. But don't complain —you should be glad your competition has 4 wheels and not 2 legs.

If you have a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of this paper. She will be glad to answer your letter. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Reimers Peps 77-66 Victory

By RON SPEER
Star Sports Staff Writer

Captain Gary Reimers was at the helm Thursday night and the opportunity-minded little skipper piloted the Nebraska Cornhuskers safely through the treacherous waters kicked up by the Wyoming Cowboys.

Reimers, 5-10 shortie, scored 23 points as the Huskers defeated the visiting Cowboys 77-66 at the Coliseum.

The Millard High grad appeared angered that he had been held to a meager point in the opening game last Monday, and he drove through the Wyoming team time and again for timely buckets.

The victory was the second in as many starts for Nebraska. The Huskers whipped South Dakota State 64-52 last Monday.

Tony Windis, slender junior set shot artist, made the crossing rough for Nebraska. Hitting with a two-handed over the head shot he made the Huskers cover him, and when they came out he drove in for fantastic shots from under the basket.

He ripped the nets for 14 field goals and hit on a free throw for 29 points, high for the night.

But Windis and the tall but inexperienced Wyoming crew weren't enough to handle the Huskers.

Playing much smoother ball than they displayed in the first game, Coach Jerry Bush's boys gave evidence that they will win more than their share of games this year.

Using sharp passing, accurate shooting and an effective fast break, the Huskers grabbed a 13-12 lead after swapping baskets with the Cowboys for seven minutes.

Sophomore center Bob Mayo scored the go-ahead basket and the Huskers never trailed again.

Wyoming stayed within a half dozen points until the half, but NU's classy speedsters were too much and with Lyle Nannen, Reimers, Mayo and Willie Fitzpatrick doing the rowing, the Huskers had pulled 14 points in front after five minutes of play in the second half.

Nannen and Don Smidt kept Wyoming from getting close-to-the basket shots, and had a 20-point lead, 70-50, with seven minutes left when Jim Kubacki rippled a sweeping set shot through the cords.

Wyoming whittled away at the lead as Bush substituted freely with his depth-laden bench. But Bush sent the veterans back into the lineup to squelch the Wyoming rally.

Both teams were sizzling on their field goal tries. The Cowboys tossed up 72 shots and hit on 30 for a .417 mark.

Nebraska connected 27 times on 59 attempts for a .458 record. the Huskers hit 23 free throws out of 35 chances for a .657 mark from the charity stripe.

Wyoming had but 14 free throw chances and failed to collect eight of them.

Mayo — who lead the Huskers with 17 points in the opener—was runnerup to Reimers for NU scoring honors Thursday night. He tallied 14.

Nannen, playing one of his best offensive games, hit 10 points as did Herschell Turner, Indianapolis sophomore.

The Huskers leave at 8 a.m. today for a two-game tour. They meet Michigan at Ann Arbor Saturday night and play Notre Dame at South Bend Monday.

Twelve players will make the trip. They are Jim Arwood, Fitzpatrick, Allen Graves, Wayne Hester, Terry Howard, Kubacki, Bill Lundholm, Nannen, Mayo, Reimers, Smidt and Turner.

NSAA Bans State Prep Bowl Games

By BOB McCOY
Star Sports Staff Writer

The Representative Assembly of the Nebraska School Activities Association, after a lengthy discussion, voted to prohibit football "bowl" games for Nebraska high schools at a meeting Thursday night.

The assembly acted on five proposals submitted by the Legislative Commission of the NSAA, passing three, turning down another and calling for a referendum vote on the other.

The most hotly contested issues dealt with scheduling limitations on football teams, with particular regard to post-season bowl games.

Four suggestions were submitted by the 1956 Representative Assembly in hopes that one might give assistance to the NSAA in controlling the extent of the football season. None of the proposals carried, with the new ruling on bowl games settling the matter.

A suggestion for schools to submit their football schedules on or before Oct. 1 received the most consideration, but was voted down.

This allows schools with an open date to fill that date without going to the Board of Control.

No positive action was taken on a suggestion to end the football season on or before the Saturday preceding Thanksgiving day.

Another hot issue, the proposed prohibiting of bowl exhibitions sponsored by non-school organizations, was settled by the new ruling.

The assembly unanimously passed proposals dealing with a change in entry fees for District Contests and a new constitution for the Girls' Athletic Association.

Suggestions asking for a change in eligibility and certification of students, especially in the case of a transfer student, were called to a referendum vote of the NSAA members. A 3-5 vote is necessary for passage.

Braves Get Pitchers Rush, Don Kaiser From Chicago

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) —The World Champion Milwaukee Braves Thursday night acquired from the Chicago Cubs righthander pitchers Bob Rush and Don Kaiser and outfielder Ed Hass in exchange for pitcher Taylor Phillips and catcher Sammy Taylor.

The trade, a straight player deal, was announced by Milwaukee Braves General Manager John Quinn, here for the annual baseball meetings.

Rush, 32, who several seasons back was the top hurler on the Cub staff, has a lifetime record of 104 victories against 124 defeats. He has 6 and 16 in the last season and posted a 4.39 earned run average.

Kaiser, 22, was 2-6 with the Cubs last season, and finished out the year at Portland in the Pacific Coast League where he won 6 and lost 5 and had a 2.72 earned run average.

The lefthanded Phillips, 25, posted a 3-2 record with Milwaukee last season and had a 5.55 earned run average.

Taylor, 24, who bats left and throws right, was with Atlanta in the Southern Assn., during the past season. He hit .257 in 130 games. He was at Topeka in 1956.

Lincoln May Lose Shepard

. . . In Line For Utah City

By DON BRYANT
Sports Editor, The Star

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — The Pacific Coast League settled its realignment difficulties here Thursday as the major-minor league convention moved into executive sessions.

The long hassle over the transfer of the Hollywood franchise of the PCL to Salt Lake City was ended, and the Coast League goes back to the Utah capital after an absence dating back to 1925.

But the Western League still found itself staggering aimlessly Thursday, with its problems still unsolved.

However, the transfer of the Hollywood franchise to Salt Lake City did bring up another question for the Lincoln Chiefs. The 1957 WL champs probably will be searching for a new manager for '58.

Larry Shepard, who guided the Chiefs to loop crowns in 1956 and 1957, is in line for the Salt Lake City manager's job, and it seems probable that Pittsburgh will move the capable field boss up following his tremendous success with the Lincoln club.

This has been the most confusing meeting baseball has ever seen, simply because the much-talked-about, much-hoped-for realignment of leagues failed to come about.

Every league came to this meeting under the impression that vast changes in the minor league structure would be made. No one could solidify their 1958 plans because they didn't know what the situation will be and as a result the Western and Texas Leagues were unable to say Thursday whether or not they'll operate in 1958.

Chances are they will, in some form or another, but the confusion which reigned here had veteran baseball men shaking their heads, astounded at whopping mixups.

The Western League Thursday morning had to put off any decision on its future out of pure necessity.

Only four clubs were represented at the scheduled final meeting—Des Moines, Amarillo, Colorado Springs and Pueblo.

A hoped-for announcement from Albuquerque failed to materialize when Reg Leggette disappeared. The Duke Prexy was in the hotel at 8 a.m., apparently optimistic over the fact that he had arranged some sort of an agreement (reportedly Detroit). But he didn't at-

Minnesota Tips Veteran I-State, 67-66

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Youthful Minnesota refused to stampede in the face of Iowa State's relentless ball-hawking Thursday night and hung on for a 67-66 victory in a non-conference basketball thriller.

Whitey Johnson's driving field goal with 15 seconds left clinched Minnesota's second straight victory after the seasoned Iowa Cyclones cut loose with a wild flurry near the finish to nearly overhaul the Gophers.

Forced into numerous mistakes by the Iowa State full court press, Minnesota compensated by ruling the backboards and hitting from long range when it had to.

Exchange Club To Fete All-City Footballers

The 1957 Lincoln All-City football players will be honored by the Exchange Club Dec. 16 at the Cornhusker Hotel, it was announced Thursday.

University of Nebraska senior football lettermen will also be honored, and a university coach will speak.

The Lincoln Star will present certificates to the 11 players picked as All-City for the 1957 season.

POINT BLANK

By Don Bryant
Sports Editor, The Star

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.—Many baseball people at the 56th annual major-minor league convention were upset by the manner in which Colorado Springs kept the Western League hanging for several days.

As host city, the Springs was the focal point for millions of words of publicity. Some 200 newsmen, radio and TV broadcasters were here to cover the proceeding.

Yet the convention no sooner got underway than Colorado Springs started giving the impression it was going out of business. Local writers couldn't find out the exact status, despite all efforts.

Baseball folks figured it was bad publicity to hold the convention in a city that was folding.

"We'd have taken the convention to Columbus, Ohio, only two weeks ago if we'd have known this mess was going to come up," one mogul said.

Adding insult to injury, say the ones who are upset over the bad publicity, was the statement by a Sky Sox director following the announcement that Colorado Springs would continue: "We never had any intention of not operating."

This statement came after two days of indecision and a delay of 16 hours after the board meeting which settled the matter before the announcement was made.

Actually, Colorado Springs was trying to ascertain the future of the Western League before committing itself. And the league picture was thoroughly muddled.

Bill Kice, Sky Sox president, proved a man of his word about the announcement. He promised some Sky Sox directors he would not make the decision known until the league meeting on Tuesday, and he didn't.

"I had given my word and I could not reveal our decision," Bill said. Kice had also promised to let the Chicago White Sox and League President O. M. Hobbs know the decision before any announcement, and he wasn't able to locate either party after the Sky Sox board meeting.

HAPPY DAYS

Relations between Lincoln and Pittsburgh continue to constitute one of the finest major-minor situations in the country.

The Pirates have been good to Lincoln player-wise and financially. Likewise, Lincoln—via President A. Q. Schimmel, General Manager Dick Wagner and the board—has tried to cooperate to the fullest with Pittsburgh.

As a result, while other communities are either out in the cold or expressing dissatisfaction over their working agreement setups, The Pirates have renewed their pact with Lincoln and increased the financial benefits to the Chiefs.

It was a happy day for Lincoln when the Pittsburgh Pirates came on the local scene—and the future looks even more promising.

Sidelights . . . . . Bill Burwell, Lincoln's 1955 manager, is here with the Pirate staff, looking as chipper as ever. He reports Mrs. Burwell recently won a turkey playing golf. There's some talk that Burwell might land a coaching job with the Bucs this year, but nothing is definite . . . . . Apparently, if he doesn't work with Danny Murtaugh, he'll continue as a managerial consultant . . . . . Five cities put in bids for the 1959 convention. The major leagues chose Washington, D.C., for 1958, while the minors will select the site for the following year. Candidates are Erie, Pa., Louisville, Ky., Jacksonville, Fla., Miami, Fla., St. Petersburg, Fla., Memphis, Tenn., and Havana, Cuba.

Freshman Whites Beat Reds 63-41

The University of Nebraska "Whites," with a well-balanced scoring attack, defeated the "Reds" 63-41 Thursday night in an intra-squad freshman battle.

Jim Kowalke hit 13 points to pace the winners, and four other players scored in double figures. Elmer Walin netted 17 for the losers.

Minors Threaten Congressional Aid

. . . Vote Bonus Out, 4-Year-Draft In

From The Associated Press

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — The minor leagues slapped at the powerful New York Yankees Thursday voting to create a four-year player draft and scrapping the bonus rule, then took on the entire major leagues by threatening to ask congressional action on proposed Sunday television of major league games into minor league territory.

The Yanks opposed both changes which were overwhelmingly voted at a closed session of the executive council of the National Assn. of Professional Baseball Leagues (minors), but later in the day, the American League also voted to eliminate the bonus rule.

The AL delayed voting on the four-year player draft—a proposal of baseball Commissioner Ford Frick—until today.

Frick indicated that the threat by the minors to ask Congress to re-open an investigation of big league baseball may prove a blessing in disguise.

The majors would welcome definite action by Washington permitting the big leagues to restrict television of their games, he commented at the baseball convention here.

Advised of the threat, Frick said:

"Good. I hope they can get Congress to pass legislation making it possible for us to put restrictions on TV. That's what we want. If we were to try it now, the Justice Department would slap a suit on us."

The minors' drastic action marked the first time in the entire history of baseball that a group within organized baseball has appealed to Congress for relief from aggression within its own ranks.

The minor league actions on the bonus rule and player draft do not become a baseball law until upheld by the majors at their joint meeting Saturday. Both proposed rules are aimed at increasing a minor league players' chance of fast advancement.

The bonus rule has kept any player signed by a major club for more than $4,000 in the major leagues for two years. It has met with growing dissatisfaction, including by major league clubs, on charges there have been under-the-table payoffs and no suitable system of enforcement.

Under the present player draft system, minor league players are not eligible for unrestricted draft until seven years service.

hustling, scrappy club, have seven lettermen in the fold to pace the attack against Beatrice.

Coach Vince Aldrich's Pius X Thunderbolts entertain Norfolk Sacred Heart.

The Thunderbolts have been hampered in early drills by the loss of veterans Don Houser and Dave Higgins via the injury route, but will be banking on Joe McWilliams and Don Thompson to pace the attack against Sacred Heart tonight.

University High and Geneva, the two Class B finalists in last year's state basketball tourney, will take up where they left off in a scrap at Geneva tonight.

Both clubs face major rebuilding jobs this season, with coach Dale Snook's Tutors needing replacements for last year's starting five and Geneva looking for a center to fill in for the graduated Larry Fiedler.

McWilliams

Lincoln High, Northeast and Southeast will be back for more action Saturday night to complete this weekend's bill. The Links host Scottsbluff, Northeast entertains North Platte and Southeast takes on McCook.

Atkinson Wins, 52-48

ATKINSON—Trailing at the end of three periods, Atkinson rallied for a 52-48 victory over Ainsworth here Thursday night. Craig Smith was high for the night with 23 points for Ainsworth, while Duane Humphrey led the winners with 15.

Merger Helps Wymore

WYMORE—The Consolidation of the Blue Springs school with Wymore tripled the number of returning lettermen for Coach Bill Hladik at Wymore this season.

Hladik already had three men who earned letters for the Zephyrs last year—Ken Shaner, Chuck Johnson, and Butch Miller.

Six others on this year's team lettered while playing for Blue Springs. They are Troy Andrews, Cliff Creek, Larry Foreman, Dennis Milburn, Jim Ossowski, and Leonard Zibreg.

The schedule:
Dec. 6—Odell; 13—at Humboldt; 17—at Sterling; 20—Hebron; Jan. 3—at Adams; 7—Friend; 17—Wilber; 21—Syracuse; 24—Pius X; 28—Auburn; 31—at Superior. Feb. 7—Pawnee City; 8—at Sutton; 14—at Tecumseh; 21—at Deshler.

Sold To Redlegs

Reds Acquire Cards' Schmidt In 5-Man Deal

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs Thursday acquired three righthanded pitchers, including veteran Willard Schmidt, in a five-player trade with the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Reds gave up outfielder Joe Taylor and outfielder-infielder Curtis Flood to get Schmidt, Marty Kutyna and Ted Wieand.

Kutyna and Wieand hurled in the minor leagues last year.

The 28-year-old Schmidt appeared in 40 games for the Cardinals last year and had a 10-3 record although he had an earned run average of slightly more than four runs a game.

Kutyna, 25, had a 10-8 record with Richmond of the International League. In 1956 he pitched for both Allentown and Omaha.

In a separate deal, the Redlegs sold lefthanded pitcher Pat Scantlebury to Toronto of the International League.

Husker Grapplers Open Saturday

The University of Nebraska wrestling team will get its first taste of competition Saturday in the invitational meet at Iowa State Teachers College, Cedar Falls, Ia.

130 lbs. — Ken McKee, Lincoln.
137 lbs. — Harold Thompson, Osage, Ia.

Braves Ink Pact

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves signed a working agreement with the Cedar Rapids, Iowa, club in the newly reorganized Class B Three-I League.

Logart Pick In Tourney Elimination

CLEVELAND (AP)—Isaac Logart of Cuba is a slight favorite to even the score with Gaspar (Indian) Ortega of Mexico at the Cleveland Arena tonight in the first of a series of eliminations for the world's welterweight championship.

Ortega holds a 2-1 edge over Logart in their three previous encounters, but the 24-year-old Cuban has been established a 7-5 favorite by the oddsmakers largely on the basis of his No. 1 rating in the 147-pound division.

The 12-round bout features the 32nd annual Cleveland News Toyshop Fund boxing program. The winner will be given a boost toward the welterweight crown relinquished by Carmen Basilio when he won the middleweight title from Sugar Ray Robinson last summer.

The fight, which will be televised and broadcast nationally (NBC) starting at 9 p.m. Central Standard Time, will be scored on a five-point-must basis. The winner of a round will receive five points, with the loser given any number below five.

Ortega, 22, is rated No. 5 in the welterweight class by the National Boxing Assn. and No. 7 by Ring Magazine.

Other fighters in the six-man welterweight tournament field are Virgil Akins of St. Louis, Vince Martinez of Paterson, N.J., Gil Turner of Philadelphia, and George Barnes of Australia.

Knox Back In Fold

CHICAGO (AP)—Ronnie Knox is back in the fold of the Chicago Bears.

A spokesman for the professional football team said Knox rejoined the Bears Thursday and will work out with the team next week.

Knox, former UCLA star, joined the Bears this season. But he was suspended Oct. 2 for skipping some practice sessions.

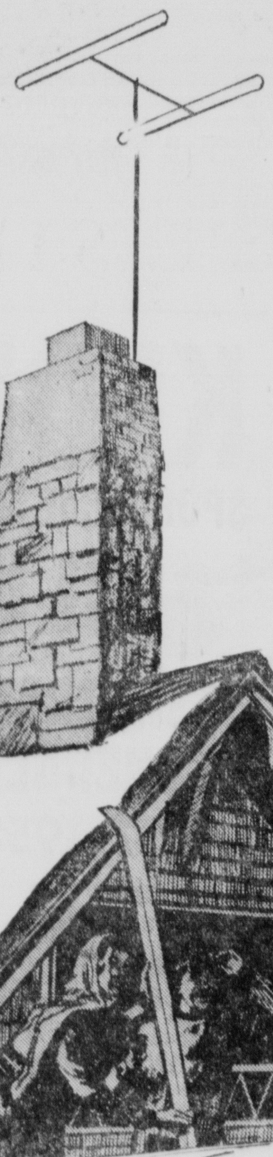
The only 1958 car that offers more of everything you want... yet is priced lower than in '57



Here's great news! While prices of 1958 cars of other manufacturers are up, the price of Ford's exciting new Custom 300 Series is down. In fact, a brand-new 58 Ford Custom 300 with all of its exciting new styling and engineering advances is priced lower than a '57 model, similarly equipped! But there is much more than low price to Ford's value story.

World approved styling. A Custom 300 brings you styling that is dramatically new. With its Honeycombed grille, Slipstream roof, Deep-Sculptured rear deck, Power-Flow hood and Safety-Twin headlights and taillights, Ford styling drew admiring glances all the way from Paris to Saigon . . . yet it's yours now in any Custom 300 without extra cost!

New handling ease. Slide behind the wheel of a Custom 300 and discover just how much fun driving can be. Notice how smoothly it handles. That's Ford's new feather-touch Magic-Circle steering, the next best thing to power steering.

New riding comfort. Notice, too, the solid comfort of your softer, smoother ride. That's Ford's easier acting front and rear suspensions. They soak up the bumps before they reach you. And you'll ride in luxury with Ford's beautiful new deep-dimension interiors!

Thrifty, new engines. You have a wonderful choice of new power plants, designed for real gas-saving economy plus greater performance. Six or V-8, they give you more power, smoother power, from less gas!

Priced as much as $50 lower. A comparison of manufacturer's suggested retail delivered prices shows that a 58 Ford Custom 300 is priced as much as $50 less than the same model for '57! You'll wonder how Ford can offer so many of the things you want in a car priced so low. One big reason: Ford gives you more car for less money because Ford sells more!

See and drive a Custom 300 and you'll agree that these Fords give you more value for your car-buying dollars than any car on the American road today.

tend the meeting where he had been scheduled to report on Albuquerque's status.

Adam Pratt of Sioux City flew home Wednesday night, after agreeing to work on a player-help basis with the St. Louis Cardinals, providing he gets some financial help from the minor league fund.

It was learned President O. M. Hobbs met with administrator Bill DeWitt Thursday morning in an effort to get help for Sioux City, but there was no indication about the success or failure of the mission.

The fact that Sioux City and Albuquerque situations are not settled is holding up the shift which would insure Des Moines 1958 operation.

It has been agreed that the Chicago Cubs will work in Pueblo and the Los Angeles Dodgers will move to Des Moines (a trade of working agreements), but the Cubs will not make the move official until they have been assured that the league has either five or seven clubs ready to go.

The Cubs will operate in a six or eight team league.

Dec. 15 must be the deadline for firming up the 1958 lineup, and more problems may crop up before then. All of the major league teams which have working agreements in the league have to get an answer soon in order to transfer their operations if the league folds.

Meanwhile, the Texas League is in the midst of a gigantic fight which may end up with several clubs not operating and-or a merger with the Mexican League.

Final settlements in that league may yet have an effect on the Western League.

The waiting game continues.

SIDELIGHTS. . . Lincoln General Manager Dick Wagner missed the league meeting because of a conference with Pittsburgh Farm Director Branch Rickey, Jr. . . . Art Kowalski of Topeka returned home Thursday morning. . . the final Western League session was marred by sadness as a result of the sudden death of Stu Dunbar, veteran sports editor of the Topeka Journal. He was stricken by a heart attack in the lobby Wednesday night.

Columbus Opens Loop Bid Against York Five

A scattering of conference games and east-west invasions are on the Nebraska prep basketball schedule tonight, opening the first big weekend of the sport.

Columbus, for instance, is involved in two games this week with other members of the Central 10 Conference. The Discoverers play at York on Friday and host Central City Saturday. York is the opposition for another tough foe on Saturday, playing at Hastings.

North Platte, Scottsbluff and McCook share the spotlight, all journeying east to meet Lincoln teams.

Friday night, McCook is at Lincoln High, Scottsbluff at Lincoln Northeast, while Beatrice plays at Lincoln Southeast. North Platte, meanwhile, opens at home against Sidney.

On Saturday Scottsbluff switches to Lincoln High, North Platte is at Northeast, and McCook at Southeast.

The other two Lincoln teams are also in action Friday, Pius X hosting Norfolk Sacred Heart while University High resumes its rivalry at Geneva.

Omaha schools also open their schedules, with Central at South the top game.

In other games Friday, Ainsworth is at Stuart, Norfolk at Albion, Arlington at North Bend, Ashland at Weeping Water, Valley at Blair, Bloomfield at Hartington, Bridgeport at Morrill, Broken Bow at Holdrege, St. Paul at Central City, Columbus St. Bonaventure at Schuyler, Ogallala at Cozad, David City at Wahoo, Fairbury at Marysville, Kans., Falls City at Seward, Neligh at Fullerton, Gering at Minatare, Wood River at Hastings St. Cecilia, Humboldt at Tecumseh, Oshkosh at Kimball, Louisville at Peru Prep, Curtis at Minden, Omaha Westside at Plattsmouth, Aurora at Stromsburg, Nehawka at Syracuse, and Wayne at Tekamah.

On Saturday, Imperial is at Grant, Minden hosts the Trans-Nebraska Jamboree, Plattsmouth at Glenwood, Ia., Ceresco at Seward Concordia, and Crete at Wahoo.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Mrs. Jan Burke's Dedicate, highweight in all the handicaps in which he started this year, Thursday night was named the American champion—Horse of the Year—by the Thoroughbred Racing Assn.'s board of selection.

He previously was chosen by the TRA as champion in the 4-year-old and up division. Presentation of the trophy marked the conclusion of the four-day session of the TRA at the Americana Hotel.

Dedicate, 5-year-old son of Princequillo-Dini, won his final start at Garden State Park Nov. 2 but pulled lame and subsequently retired. He will enter stud at A.B. Hancock's Claiborne Farm at Paris, Ky.

In four years of racing, Dedicate started 43 times and won 12 races and a total bankroll of $533,200. In 1957 he won four of 12 starts and finished second four times and third once, earning $235,035. He finished first in the Atlantic City Handicap but was disqualified.

Local associations broaden the practice of offering scholarships to prospective teachers.

Efforts be renewed to create interest in and promotion of school district reorganization.

The NSEA continue study and consideration of the possibility of a state-wide program of housing for retired teachers.

The NSEA work toward securing a retirement program that will provide a total benefit from the state retirement system and federal social security of at least 50 per cent of the salary the teacher receives at the time of retirement.

The NSEA, upon notification by the state commissioner of education, be responsible for investigation of any complaint that may lead to revocation of a teacher's certificate.

Income Tax Aid Planned

If you think you will need help with your 1957 income tax return, then read on.

All Nebraska district offices of the Internal Revenue Service will be open each Monday from Jan. 2 to April 15 to "furnish information and advice" in assisting taxpayers to prepare their returns.

IRS officials said the assistance will be provided on a "self-help basis" with the agents providing only information and advice.

The Lincoln IRS office in the Post Office building is open from 8 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. An information desk will be open each weekday, but only to provide forms and answer questions.

Other district offices open on Mondays during the filing period are at Beatrice, Nebraska City, Scottsbluff, Alliance, Sidney, North Platte, McCook, Grand Island, Hastings, Broken Bow, Kearney, Norfolk, Columbus, Fremont and O'Neill.

The "assistance days" will be Jan. 6, 13, 20, 27, 31; Feb. 3, 10, 14, 17, 24; March 3, 10, 17, 24, 31, and April 7, 14 and 15.

Record Milo Crop Picked

RED CLOUD, Neb. (AP)—A record-breaking milo crop is being harvested in Webster County.

All grain elevators in the area are said to be full and no more grain is presently being accepted. Elevator men blamed the trouble on the inability to get boxcars.

Farmers reported the milo of good quality, testing 56 pounds with a moisture content of 13 to 15 per cent.

Wholesale Meat Firm Expanding

FALLS CITY, Neb. (AP) — The Falls City Wholesale Meat Co. has announced an expansion program which included the construction of a new plant to include approximately 17,000 square feet of floor space.

The building is designed to permit processing of about 200,000 pounds of luncheon meats weekly, or about three times the capacity of the plant now in operation.

In the new plant the firm will operate completely under U. S. meats inspection. At the present time the company sells its products entirely within the state of Nebraska.

The partners in the firm, Judd Linscott and Lawrence Wiedmaier, say that the expansion program ultimately will mean added payroll in Falls City.

Girard Pays His Share Of Cost; Says Goodbye

YOKOHAMA (Friday) (INS)—Pvt. William S. Girard sails for home Friday after squaring his account with Japan by paying $31.60—his share of the cost of his manslaughter trial.

The 22-year-old GI handed over the money to the U. S. Army for delivery next week to the Maebashi District Court which found Girard guilty in the killing of a Japanese woman and gave him a three-year suspended sentence.

Friday afternoon, Girard and his 29-year-old Japanese wife Candy are saying farewell to Japan—the nation that won a bitter jurisdictional fight for the right to try the soldier—from the deck of the U. S. Army transport General Anderson.

The troopship, sailing from Yokohama, is due to arrive in San Francisco Dec. 16.

Injuries Cost Life Of Ex-York Farmer

Rites Sunday For Schlueter

Lincoln Star Special

YORK, Neb.—Ben Schlueter, 78-year-old retired farmer, died Thursday in a York hospital of injuries suffered Monday in a traffic accident.

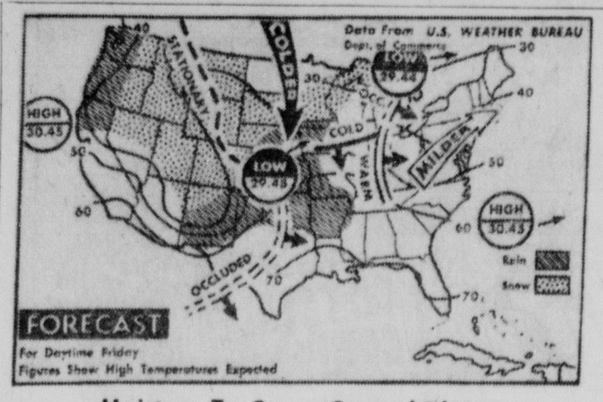
Mr. Schlueter suffered severe injuries when his car ran into a gravel ridge and turned over on a county road two and a half miles east of York, according to County Sheriff Lewis Ekart.

Born in Seward County, he had lived in the York vicinity for many years.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at Emmanuel Lutheran Church in York with burial in St. John's Cemetery, south of Waco.

Surviving are his wife, Marie; a daughter, Mrs. Ray Collett of York; a son, Carl J. of York; two grandchildren; two brothers, Ernest of York and Julius of Lexington; and three sisters, Mrs. Matilda Blum of York, Mrs. Oscar Nabe" of Waco and Mrs. Hugo Naber of Utica.

The death brings Nebraska's 1957 highway fatality toll to 276, compared to 284 at this time last year.



Moisture To Cover Central Plains

Snow is expected Friday in the upper Mississippi Valley and a good portion of the northern Plain states, and rain from northern California along the Pacific coast to Canada, over the central Plains and most of the northern section of the southern Plains. It will be warmer over the area east of the Mississippi Valley; colder in the Plain states.

Loss Estimated Near $7,000 In Hay Springs Fire

HAY SPRINGS, Neb. (AP)—A vacant store, only four years old in the heart of the Hay Springs business district, was destroyed by fire.

The building was vacated recently by the Marshal Wells Hardware Co. and was being remodeled and readied for another tenant. It was owned by James Hobson of Hay Springs.

The loss was estimated at $7,000.

The cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

A total of about 35 firemen and three trucks fought the blaze at its height. The Rushville volunteer firemen assisted those from Hay Springs.

Omaha Food Sanitation Code Proposed

OMAHA (AP)—The Omaha food industry committee Thursday suggested a five-point program including an industry-enforced code to insure sanitary conditions in the city's groceries and meat markets.

This recommendation was their proposed alternative to any city ordinance which would give the power of enforcement to Dr. Edwin Lyman, city-county health director.

The program: Appointment of an expert in the field of microbiology; inspection of all groceries and meat establishments to determine whether a health problem "really exists;" formulation of a code regulating sanitary conditions in the stores; endorcement of the code by the food industry itself; education of grocers.

The committee said if it becomes necessary to take punitive action against an individual grocer this would be done by filing a complaint under existing statutes. The courts, not an individual, would determine the case.

"The power of revoking a grocery's permit should not be placed in the hands of any one man, regardless of how capable he is," said L. C. Hawley, a committee member.

The committee challenged recently statements by Dr. Lyman about its industry.

They said of the 15 cases of food poisoning in Omaha since 1949, 13 had nothing to do with groceries or meat markets.

Attorney To Appeal Sentences Given Airmen By Jap Officials

TOKYO (AP) — The American attorney for two U. S. airmen convicted in a Japanese court of assault and attempted robbery of a taxi driver said Thursday he would appeal their prison sentences.

Airman 3.C. Phillip W. Morris of North Platte, Neb., and Airman 2.C. Andrew N. Hartman of Hogansville, Ga., were sentenced Nov. 29 to three and a half and four years, respectively, at hard labor for hitting a taxi driver and fleeing without paying a 230-yen (about 60 cents) fare. Both are 20 years old. They are at Shiroi Air Base, near Tokyo, under restriction.

"Both men will be in my office Saturday to sign formal papers authorizing me to appeal in their behalf," said their attorney, Frank Scolinos.

Scolinos said he would turn the documents over to Japanese authorities either Saturday or Monday.

Stanton Delaplane's POSTCARD

Recently a number of people went down to Yorktown and celebrated the surrender of Lord Cornwallis. The band played: "The World Turned Upside Down."

The parades of my youth marched to "When Johnny Comes Marching Home Again," "Dixie," "Over There" and "K-k-kkaty."

After that, military music went to pieces.

I did hear an Air Force captain whang away on a Japanese samisen in a deadfall called Miyoshi's in Tokyo. But it was mainly unnerving.

☆ ☆ ☆

Well, here it is 16 years after Pearl Harbor. And not a song that has held up. That is a meager record. While Senators are talking preparedness, a smart musical Senator could investigate how we are fixed for music.

The first song that come out after Pearl Harbor was "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition." It did not last long and never went over with the troops.

The plain fact is we had to fall back on our allies for music.

The most popular tunes came from overseas:

"Waltzing Matilda" and "Bless Them All" and "I've Got Sixpence" and "Roll Me Over in the Clover."

A native-born song, "Dirty Gertie From Bizerte," did not get very far.

And "Oh, Mr. Truman, Why Can't We Come Home?" had to lift the musical score from "Lili Marlene."

The English contributed one whose name I do not know:

"I'd rather 'ang around
"Piccadilly Underground
"And live off the earnin's of a 'igh born lydie . . ."

This shows the dreadful state of unpreparedness. And what we probably need is a rousing album of "Music to Shoot Missiles By."

☆ ☆ ☆

The music offered to the young gentlemen I knew came mainly from Tokyo Rose who had a weakness for the Boston Pops Orchestra. It was pretty scratchy. The records at Radio Tokyo took quite a beating.

(I found this out later covering the Tokyo Rose trial. They had Japanese recording, naturally. But the American records wore right down flat.)

If the Russians contributed any music, they did not give it to us capitalists. Not that it matters. It would be fairly dreary marching to "The Volga Boatman."

☆ ☆ ☆

We used to get some music from the Army radio stations that went under the name of "The Mosquito Network."

The disk jockey had his eye on the future. He did not figure to make a 30-year man in the Army. And he lavished his big soulful voice on his commercials. He had a Deep South hush puppy accent:

"Now, boy, take yore Atabrine. Yo're a big boy now."

I think he would have liked to have made it a singing commercial. He put a lot of sell into Atabrine. They gave the stuff away. You packed it on your belt. And there was always a handful of little yellow pills on the mess table — if you had a table.

It was supposed to keep you from having malaria. And the opposition dropping leaflets saying it would have a lasting and poor effect on your future.

It drove the disk jockey wild:

"Take yore Atabrine," he said. "Them fellers don't know nothin'."

Then he would play, "Three Itty Fitties in a Itty Bitty Poo."

He just about drove US wild. That was one thing we weren't prepared for.

Farmers Criticized For Lack Of Interest In Ag Plans

OGALLALA, Neb. (AP)—The lack of interest of farmers in their own programs came in for some criticism at the opening of the Nebraska Wheat Growers Association convention Thursday.

C. H. Kreader of Dalton said many farmers don't vote in ASC elections and don't attend farm organization meetings or those of the wheat association.

Said Kraeder, "If we let the program go until they get about 20 or 30 cents a bushel, maybe they would take an interest in their own problems."

Herbert Hughes, Imperial, called unfounded the implication that if the United States went deeper into the world market it might affect our friendly relations with Canada.

Hughes, who is president of the National Association of Wheat Growers, said that when U.S. wheat exports go up, Canadian exports also go up.

The afternoon program was a discussion on the farm program and on marketing.

Foreign Market Report

In the evening, the delegates heard a report on foreign marketing.

The convention will continue through Saturday morning.

Art Cummings of Washington, an official of the Foreign Agriculture Service, said in a night speech that Nebraska wheat men should do as much selling as they do producing of their grain.

Cummings said that American farms produce two products that are unequalled in the world. These, he said, are flour and rice.

Export of wheat in the last reached 546 million bushels, the top amount in history, Cummings stated.

Carl C. Bruns, state president of the Nebraska Assn., said that in his seven weeks overseas with a foreign marketing team he found many potential markets but expressed concern that America is not now exporting its best quality wheat.

Army Engineers Reviewing Missouri Power Capabilities

WASHINGTON (AP) — Power capabilities of Missouri River reservoirs during the next few years are being reviewed by the Army Engneers.

An engineers' spokesman said the special study was requested by the Reclamation Bureau.

Information gained from the study will be turned over to the bureau for its use in power marketing.

"The Corps of Engineers," the spokesman said, "is reviewing its latest estimates of power capabilities of Missouri River mainstem reservoirs during the next year or so, in the light of current reservoir storage and probable inflow into the system during the next flood season."

5-Year Forecast

A spokesman for the Reservoir Control Center in Omaha said the study asked by the Bureau of Reclamation was less a special study than it was a speeding up of the annual five-year forecasts made for the bureau to enable it to contract for power sales in advance.

He said this study will be completed and delivered to John Walker, power manager of the Bureau of Reclamation at Billings, Mont., next Tuesday.

Nebraska Needs Shift

The Corps of Engineers in Omaha said a considerable amount of the problem arises from the fact that in recent years Nebraska's peak load period has shifted from winter to summer because of the rapid increase in pump irrigation and air conditioning, and the bureau needs to know as much as possible about prospects of power production next summer.

The four Missouri River Power plants will not be able to increase their installed capacity, which now is 745,000 kilowatts before the Oahe plant comes on the line in about 1961, so the factors lie to a great degree in the amount of water which will be available in the main stem reservoirs.

The Nebraska Public Power System's requests for additional federally produced power and the present plans for construction of two heavy transmission lines from the mainstem dams into Nebraska are factors in the Bureau's concern.

Benson Renews Attack On Price Support Law

AMES, Ia. (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson said Thursday night present farm programs have forced the midwestern Cornbelt to surrender its natural advantage in feed grain production to the West, South and Northeast.

He said that under these programs, acreage diverted from cotton in the South and West and from wheat in the Great Plains and in the East have been put into oats, barley and sorghums, all competitors of corn as feed.

As a consequence, Benson said, feed surpluses have accumulated forcing reductions in corn acreage allotments to a level where few Corn Belt farmers can comply with them and still operate their farms efficiently.

The secretary said in a speech at the annual All-Ag banquet at Iowa State College that controls should be removed from corn and that price supports for this grain should be set in line with those for the competitor grains. Present law allows lower supports for oats, barley and sorghums than for corn.

Benson renewed his attack on provisions of the price support law requiring him to raise floors under prices when supplies decline. He said such price support formulas can be made to work only if there is effective control over production.

Churchmen: Perspective Is Essential

. . . In Space Age

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Church leaders Thursday hailed scientific strides toward mastery of space travel, but warned that all-out obsession with mechanical prowess could sap the nation's spiritual strength.

Amid spectacular developments in space satellites and other awesome forces, the Christian representatives said, it is essential to maintain a perspective that sees "life steadily and whole."

"In this new era God is still sovereign, Lord of men and nations."

The declaration was adopted at the fourth triennial General Assembly of the National Council of Churches, which also took these other actions in a legislation-crammed session:

1. Elected as president a Midwestern Baptist pastor, the Rev. Dr. Edwin T. Dahlberg of St. Louis, a fervent preacher whose hobby is mountain-climbing and who belongs both to the American (Northern) and Southern Baptist conventions.

Integration Urged

2. Appealed to Christians in local communities to shoulder the task of wiping out racial segregation in the schools and elsewhere, and expressed hope that federal troops won't have to be used further in the process.

3. Declared that "the accelerating arms race which now grips our world may lead directly to a war which will destroy civilization," and said "efforts must be redoubled" to achieve world-wide disarmament through the United Nations.

4. Condemned the "appaling corruption" revealed lately in some labor unions as a threat to the "nation's moral foundations" and urged legislation—fair to both management and labor—to curb "specific abuses".

5. Authorized a telegram to the AFL-CIO convention in Atlantic City, commending it and its president, George Meany, for striving to oust "various corrupt and racketeering elements" from the labor movement.

6. Took steps to admit two more communions, the Armenian Church of North America and the Polish National Catholic Church of America, to raise council constitutency to 32 Protestant, Orthodox and Catholic denominations with 38 million members.

Dr. Dahlberg, 64, is the first Baptist ever to head the council. He succeeds the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake of Philadelphia, a Presbyterian leader. Previous presidents have been Protestant Episcopal and Methodist bishops.

Superintendents Given Review Of Finance Problems

A review of the current problems in finance in Nebraska was presented to the Nebraska Assn. of County Superintendents Thursday.

Mrs. J. F. Lucas, a member of the Omaha Board of Education, gave a report on the history of taxation in Nebraska. Glenn Kramer of Albion, former state senator, told the superintendents about a citizens committee interested in improving education.

Donald Kline, executive secretary of the Nebraska State Education Assn., gave a preview of proposals in taxation and finance to be presented at the NSEA delegate assembly Friday.

Also speaking Thursday were Mrs. Arthur George, president of the Lincoln chapter of the American Assn. of University Women; Avery Linn of the State Department of Education, and Stanley Hawley, deputy commissioner of the state education department.

Ship, Tobacco Shares Rise

NEW YORK (AP) — Shipbuilding and tobacco shares ran up for sizable gains in an otherwise highly erratic stock market Thursday.

In steels, motors, chemicals, oils and metals prices were mixed. Gains and losses ran from fractions to about 1 point. Rails and airlines weakened but losses were not large.

The day's activity left a very slight advantage for the bulls—there were 468 gainers compared with 458 losers. Among the 15 most active stocks, the bulls did much better. Gains outnumbered losses 10 to 4 with 1 unchanged.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 30 cents to $159.50 with the industrials up 70 cents, rails down 50 cents and utilities unchanged. There were 14 new highs for 1957 and 33 new lows.

It was a slow day. Volume barely held above the two million mark at 2,020,000 shares. That was the lowest since Nov. 11, Veterans' Day, when 1,540,000 shares changed hands. Wednesday's trading totaled 2,220,000 shares.

The shipbuilding shares, enjoying sudden popularity since Tuesday, were in increasing demand following Russia's launching of the first atomic-powered surface ship. It was felt this event might encourage government spending for nuclear powered ships in this country.

The aircraft-missiles were mixed with several coming in for profit-taking after recent upward exertions.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange where volume of 580,000 shares compared with 660,000 Wednesday.

OLD WHEAT FALLS AFTER EARLY GAINS

CHICAGO (AP)—Profit—taking late the session wiped out early gains in old crop wheat futures on the Board of Trade Thursday.

All wheat deliveries ended lower, with the deferred months down a cent or more.

With the exception of oats, December corn and December rye, all other grain contracts also declined.

At the finish wheat was ⅜ to 1⅛ lower, corn ¾ lower to ½ higher, oats unchanged to ⅜ higher, rye 1½ lower to ¼ higher, soybeans ⅜ to 1¼ lower, and lard was 2 to 15 cents a hundred pounds lower.

Profit-taking and hedge selling of wheat futures resulted when the old crop months failed to hold early gains, disclosing a lack of follow-through buying by exporters. Exporters were active buyers earlier against sales of 700,000 bushels of hard wheat to Israel.

Small tenders of corn against the expiring December contract and a firm cash market were factors in demand for the nearby delivery. All other corn deliveries tended lower, reflecting expectation of more liberal offerings by farmers.

Increased offerings of soybeans in the country also were anticipated by traders and this caused selling of soybeans futures. Oats futures were firm on buying caused by higher cash prices and light offerings. There was no particular feature to the rye market.

Veterinarians Don't Like Appointment Method

The State Veterinary Medical Assn. Thursday took a stand against what was termed the politically-influenced method of appointing a state veterinarian.

They voted in favor of formation of a five-member livestock sanitary board, composed of three livestock industry representatives and two veterinarians.

The board would obtain a full-time veterinarian as its executive secretary and as state veterinarian.

The state now has two veterinarians working in its program, Dr. Daniel F. Waring is director of state-federal livestock disease control and Dr. J. L. George is state veterinarian on a part-time basis.

The delegates also voted to ask Congress to appropriate funds for continuing the brucillosis testing and vaccinating program.

Railroads Apply For Lower Rates On Shipping Meat

The State Railway Commission has said a number of railroads have applied for Interstate Commerce Commission authority to reduce rates on carload fresh meat shipments to the East.

Cecil Brennan, commission rate expert, said Thursday that if the ICC does not rule against the applications, the rates will go into effect Dec. 31.

The rate reduction would include shipments from Omaha, Lincoln, Fremont, Scottsbluff and McCook, Brennan said, and would put railroads in a more competitive position with trucking firms.

The proposed rates, he said, are based on minimum carload shipments of 21,000 pounds to the Mississippi River for suspended meats, and 30,00 pounds beyond the river; and on 21,000 pounds for non-suspended meats to the river and 25,000 pounds beyond.

Tax Collections Net $1½ Million For Road Use

The state engineer received $1,571,884.86 for road construction out of the $3,049,017.06 collected in gasoline and special fuel taxes during November, State Treasurer Ralph W. Hill reported.

Hill said $618,446.51 of the total was returned to the counties, $457,520 deposited in the agricultural refund account, $386,529.07 went for support of rural star mail routes and $14,636 was refunded to dealers.
